"Life" in Everything.
If Not Life, Then Motion.
A Lady Says So.
For a Change, No News.

Edith Allan writes from No. 503 West First street, Los Angeles: "Did you ever consider that it has been discovered recently that ALL is LIFE MOTION, even in the iron, solid rock, even in glass?"

Nobody has yet been able to tell exactly what LIFE really is. We know that there is motion everywhere. The invisible molecules, atoms and electrons that make up a piece of solid iron held in your hand are all moving with frightful rapidity. Instead of being "solid," as we suppose, the atoms of iron in proportion to their diameters, are separated from each other as widely as the earth is separated from the sun, ninety-three million miles away. In other words, our solar system is as nearly "solid" as a silver spoon. A good enough definition might be: "Life is voluntary motion, matter is INVOLUNTARY motion."

Everything, every atom of matter in the entire universe is in a constant state of motion. The definition, however, would hardly do for lower forms of life. The sponge and the sensitive plant have what seem to be voluntary motions, but they are presumably not conscious motions.

The interesting thing about the letter from Miss Allan, who urges us "to think and investigate in a constructive way," is her enthusiasm for science.

She knows, of course, that Giordano Bruno, burned alive in Rome three hundred and twenty years ago, was also much interested in the study of life, matter and motion. Bruno, before Galileo, used his telescope, wrote on the "plurality of worlds," saying that every star is a sun with invisible planets revolving around it.

Bruno, whose chief crime in the eyes of those that burned him, was his statement that space is infinite and filled with worlds, many of them inhabited, declared that the entire universe is a soul that lives in all things. "Matter is the mother of forms and then their graves." He thought that all the matter in the universe, plus the "soul of the universe," constituted God.

He talked too much and too soon, and it is no wonder they burned him, since they couldn't frighten him into keeping quiet.

Anyhow, he was a brave man, for he said, when the horrible sentence to be burned alive was passed upon him: "Perhaps it is with greater fear that ye pass this sentence upon me than I receive it."

As the flames made charcoal of his body and hid him from view, his executioners, quite pleased with themselves, said to him: "Go now and find the imaginary worlds that you have talked so much about."

They thought they had ended him and his theories; that they had proved the earth to be the centre of everything, and that the sun and all the stars in heaven revolved around it. But they were wrong.

The practical reader may ask: "Why do you waste this expensive white paper to talk about Giordano Bruno; he doesn't interest me, and, anyhow, he is dead?" But he does interest you, for certainly you are interested in Shakespeare. You ought to be. When Shakespeare was a penniless youth in London, Giordano Bruno, constantly traveling to keep away from the gentlemen that wanted to catch and burn him up, was in London also.

Shakespeare undoubtedly read what Bruno wrote; perhaps he met and talked with him, for Shakespeare had an inquiring mind.

In any case, there is no doubt that Bruno's theories stirred into activity the brain of young Shakespeare, just as later theories are stirring into activity our youthful scientific friend, Edith Allan of No. 503 West First street, Los Angeles.

Mysterious 'Ad' Reveals Death Menace to Mrs. Mary D. A. Sayles of Pawtucket

Pawtucket, July 22.—Threatened with death unless she delivers over large sums of money, Mrs. Mary D. A. Sayles, widow of the late Frank A. Sayles of this city, multi-millionaire manufacturer, is today being closely guarded from a blackmailer.

So great has been the influence exerted over the wealthy woman that it is believed she was already paid out large sums to save herself from injury and possible death.

COVERS UP TRACKS.

All efforts to locate the writer of the letters has failed, although the circumstances surrounding the case clearly show that the blackmailer is a person of keen intelligence and has taken every precaution to cover up his tracks.

Although the blackmailing plot was shrouded in secrecy by Mrs. Sayles' family and her counsel, it was disclosed through the repeated appearance of an advertisement in newspapers in this city and in Providence which, apparently in answer to some demand, read, "I will. D. A. S."

These cryptic words, in the opinion of persons who are in a position to know, were in answer to a heavy demand made by the blackmailer for money, and intimated that the money would be deposited at a place designated in one of the letters sent to the manufacturer's widow.

The motive behind the blackmailing plot, other than to frighten a wealthy woman into parting with recently inherited fortune, is not known, and neither can one be suggested by Mrs. Sayles herself. She has no known enemies, say her friends, who are at a loss to explain the mystery.

The blackmailer, who apparently operates through an agent, is familiar with Mrs. Sayles' family life, the extent of her income and her move-

Brigadier-General Clarence R. Edwards today denied the report that Camp Devens would close because of the increased cost of maintaining the Ayer camp.

"There is no foundation to such a rumor. As a matter of fact Camp Devens is the recognized government army cantonment for this section of the country. Officials at Washington are thoroughly satisfied with the present regular army troops stationed there," he said.

Half Cent a Mile Boost in Fares Planned

By International News Service.

Washington, July 22.—An increase in passenger railroad rates of one-half cent per mile throughout the country appeared to be the basis for raising one-third of the increased revenues for the railroads to meet increased wage awards, when the rate committee of the Railway Executives' Association resumed sessions here today.

The increase of one-half cent per mile will raise $200,000,000 and an additional increase of 2 or 3 per cent. on freight rates will net another $300,000,000.

The committee has been unable to agree on the means of raising the remaining $100,000,000 needed to meet the $600,000,000 wage increase granted by the Railroad Labor Board.

11 YEAR OLD GIRL TRIES SUICIDE

Slightly Hurt After 4-Story Leap When Threatened With Parental Discipline

New York, July 22.—Lying in Volunteer Hospital today is a bright-faced little girl of eleven, suffering from slight injuries she received by jumping from a fourth story window in an attempt to die in order to escape parental discipline she had reason to expect. She will not die, the surgeons say. In fact, she is not very badly hurt.

The girl is Angela Scherguiseppi of No. 134 Cherry street. Her attempt at self-destruction was due to a fit of despondency. She suffered only lacerations of the right leg and contusions of the body.

The police say the child feared she would be punished by her parents. She was alone in the house at the time and scrawled a pathetic little note before she leaped from the window. The note read:

"It was no use to get kill and I threw myself out of the window because I need—I was killed tonight.

"Angela."

This note, written with a pencil, was left on a table. The child admitted she wrote the note and then went to the window and jumped to the street. Several passersby on the crowded street were nearly struck by the girl as she fell.

Angela landed almost squarely on her feet and fell on her side. She was stunned and unable to talk until an ambulance arrived.

It is so often said that "the sorrows of childhood are soon forgotten" that it has become almost a truism. They are forgotten that doesn't soon dry her tears is difficult to find.

But the grief—the hopeless despair—of little Angela reached such a tragedy that she decided to take her own life. What was there to live for? Only the punishment which seemed sure to come than any of the ordinary joys of most girls. She wasn't a coward, this cringing girl of tender sensibilities and pride. She will not die. And she's probably glad today, for the punishment she expected will not fall.

Drafted to Remove Garbage in Dorchester When Collectors Strike

Twenty-five laborers employed by Thomas Gorman, who has the contract for the removal of the garbage in Dorchester, have struck for more money. Employes of the street cleaning division have been drafted to take the place of the strikers. The city employes, being union men, claim they are placed into an unfair position, and will take the matter up with the street cleaning union.

The strikers have been paid $4 a day and start work at 8 o'clock in the morning. They demand $6 a day and request they be allowed to start work an hour earlier. They desire to have most of the collections made before the sun becomes too hot.

A call for a meeting of the union city employes has been issued to take up the matter.

"Dry" Agents Arrest Truckmen With $12,000 Worth of Liquor in Springfield

Springfield, July 12.—Federal Prohibition Agents Thomas A. Kenefick and Charles Murphy made what are regarded as important arrests and seizures at 2 o'clock this morning when, in front of the residence of John Shea at No. 68 Florence street, they came upon a five-ton motor truck from which, they allege, Fred W. Busch and George Merritt of Greenwich, Ct., were unloading 150 cases of whiskey valued at at least $12,000. Shea is said to have been the proprietor of a Springfield cafe a number of years ago. He was not at home.

Busch and Merritt, who said they were engaged at Greenwich to do the trucking and knew no more about it, were arrested on the charge of illegal transportation. Truck and whiskey were seized in the name of the United States government.

PROHIBITIONISTS WAIT FOR WORD FROM BRYAN

Lincoln, Neb., July 22.—No word has yet been received by the national prohibition committee leaders from William Jennings Bryan in answer to their telegram notifying him of his nomination. Duplicate telegrams were sent to Pony and Bozeman, Mont., where the Commoner was supposed to be last night.

It was learned here that Mr. Bryan left Pony, where he lectured last evening, before the telegram was delivered, and would not know of the convention's selection until he returned to Bozeman this morning.

The platform committee was the only group able to carry on its work today. The members continued in session until 2 a. m. and then joined the crowds in the hotel lobbies and at the telegraph stations. All work will remain at a standstill until word is received from the Commoner. This was expected any minute.

BLACKMAIL PLOT AGAINST RICH WIDOW BARED BY "ADS"

MRS. SAYLES BELIEVED TO HAVE GIVEN BIG SUMS

ments about her home and in this city.

HAS $4,000,000 FORTUNE.

Mrs. Sayles is now one of the wealthiest women in this State, having been left $4,000,000 outright and an annuity of $100,000. The blackmailing plot is said by the police to be one of the boldest ever brought to their attention. Private detectives have been engaged by the widow's counsel, and these, with the police of this city and Providence, are trying to trace the writer of the letters, all of which were unsigned.

The missives which have been received by Mrs. Sayles with daring regularity, threaten her with death if she fails to advance the amount asked for. The letter carefully instructs her where to place the money and even designates a particular time when it could be left. This money, the letter continues, would be taken by an agent of the writer and brought to him, although this agent would not be familiar with the envelope's contents.

If an attempt was made to secrete detectives at the point where the money was to be left death would follow, the letter read, in one instance.

WIDOW NEARLY PROSTRATED.

The receipt of these letters is said to have nearly prostrated Mrs. Sayles who, on the recommendation of her friends, is said to have parted with a large amount.

Apparently this failed to satisfy the blackmailer who wrote several other letters, each one growing increasingly threatening and the situation became so distressing that she went to her counsel. The police were notified and every available detective in this city and Providence was placed on the case, but without result.

Mrs. Sayles' household has been thrown into a panic by the mysterious letters. To prevent an attempt on the life of the widow her beautiful mansion in this city is being closely guarded. Only friends and persons known to be on official business are permitted to see Mrs. Sayles.

MANY UNDER SCRUTINY.

Nearly every person who is in any way connected with the wide business interests of the Sayles family has been under scrutiny. Even personal friends have not been above some measure of suspicion, so stupendous is the part is being outlined from the widow that nothing has been left undone to bring the guilty man to justice.

The letters have been carefully examined by paper experts and authorities on ink composition and even handwriting experts have been called into the case, but their attempts to fasten the guilt upon anybody proved futile. Not even a clew was obtained by this examination of the missives.

ENTIRE STATE AROUSED.

The cunning displayed by the blackmailer in planning his coup rather discards the statement of one of Mrs. Sayles' friends that one of the letters received last year was signed with the figure of a black hand.

The mere fact that he completely frightened the widow into paying a large sum, it is said, indicates the sure hand with which he played his game and how shrewdly he staged the entire affair.

The blackmailing case has aroused the entire State. Efforts to keep the facts from the public broke down when the advertisements continued to appear in the newspapers here in Providence.

Persons at first believed that the simple statement "I will. D. A. S." was part of an advertising scheme but when they continued to appear suspicion was aroused, and coupled with other discourses made concerning the letters, the entire plot was brought to light.

Mrs. Sayles, although weak from nervous strain, is directing the hunt for the blackmailer from her home. Dozens of operatives are known to be working on the case. It is even stated that she will spend her fortune, if necessary, to run down the blackmailer.

After the first letter was received, and it is said the money paid, they stopped for a period. But, as in all blackmailing cases, the purpuer soon came back with even greater demands. The tone of the subsequent missives became so threatening that she dared no longer play a "fast and loose" game with him. It was then that the widow, driven almost to distraction, went to her counsel and then to the police.

department of Justice "Flying Squadron" and now in charge of the sugar situation, declared that such deliberate restriction of output, when the demand still exceeds the supply, was a serious offense.

He explained, however, that the present action of the courts in freeing big woolen manufacturers in Massachusetts from charges of violating the Lever act, had temporarily robbed the department of its principal weapon. An appeal has been taken by the prosecution, but until this appeal comes before the court no further action can be taken.

Howard E. Fiey, special assistant to Attorney General Palmer in active charge of the campaign against the "H. C. L.," charged the manufacturers with having given as their excuse for high prices tat to demand exceeded the supply and "now when the public stops buying and the manufacturers have a chance to catch up, they deliberately cut their production still further laying off men and closing their shops," he added.

The funeral will take place in Boston.

AUTOS NEEDED FOR OUTING

Legion Appeals for 100 Cars for Crippled Veterans' Outing July 30

Have you forgotten the wounded men in the world war, the men who were idolized, cheered and remembered on all occasions during those days but who appear to be neglected now that the war is over?

The American Legion hasn't, for through Henry J. (Sailor) Ryan, chairman of the Americanism committee, who conceived the idea, plans have been made for an all-day automobile outing Friday, July 30, when all the wounded, disabled and crippled former service men, numbering between 500 and 600 in five hospitals throughout Greater Boston, are to receive some other and assurance.

According to the present posts, it is proposed to call for all the men at the Parker Hill, West Roxbury, Psychopathic, Chelsea Naval, Chelsea Marine and Arlington Hospitals, where the boys have been confined since their return with their honorbadges of distress, in automobiles, where they will be assembled for the start in front of the State House.

From there it is proposed to take the men for several hours' automobile trip along the South Shore, and back to the estate of Louis K. Liggett, at Cheshire Hill, Lenox, where will be served by Red Cross girls. There will be a band concert, followed by an exhibition of horse racing and jumping. Invitations have been extended to Governor Coolidge, Mayor Peters and many army and navy officials to be present.

Great difficulty is being encountered by the committee in securing the required 100 automobiles to convey the men. An appeal to the public is now made to offer their cars for the day. As most of the men are in such poor physical condition, comfortable riding cars are urgently solicited, in order to alleviate physical discomfort.

If you have such a car, and could offer its use for the day for the benefit of the men who served at the cost of their health, many of them throng life, now is your chance. Communicate immediately with the chairman, Henry J. (Sailor) Ryan, at Room 1259 Little Building, telephone Beach 4720.

This will not be the only affair to be offered the men, as it is proposed to give two or three other outings during the remainder of the Summer, with entertainments during the Winter.

"Sailor" Ryan, who has gone heart and soul into the plan, and who insists that the affair shall be put through successfully, is being assisted by Leo J. Sullane, State adjutant, and James T. Duane, chairman of the welfare committee of the American Legion.

During the trip it is proposed to accord the men every attention and comfort. They will be given smokes and other delights and will have the services of the Hyde Park Band throughout the trip. A number of surprises have also been planned to cheer them on the trip.

Since the ending of the war the outing will be the first of its kind to be offered the former wounded service men.

ROME ON STAND IN DEFENCE

Alleged Draft Dodger Denies He Sought to Evade Military Service

Philip L. Rome, wealthy young Worcester business man, took the stand in his own defense today before the court-martial which is trying him for alleged draft evasion.

Rome denied intention of seeking to evade military service by a three-year stay in Buenos Aires during hostilities, and declared he complied with the letter of the draft law.

The defendant, appeared well-dressed and cheerful when the trial was resumed in the Federal building, and apparently was confident of acquittal.

LEFT IN JULY, 1917.

In reply to questions by his counsel, Judge A. K. Cohen, he said he went to Buenos Aires on business in July, 1917, three weeks after he registered for the draft at Worcester City Hall.

He said he originally intended to stay four months. A copy waiver obtained from the provost-marshal general at Washington, giving him permission to go, was introduced.

Rome testified he returned to America in January of the present year, and in the meantime heard nothing from his draft board. He said he was in constant correspondence with relatives in Worcester, and that his address was generally known.

"NEVER USED AN ALIAS."

He also talked frequently with the American consul-general at Buenos Aires, he said, never used an alias, and readily could have been found.

A copy of his application for a passport was introduced, as well as an official letter stating the passport had been issued. This passport was renewed in December, 1917. It was not renewed thereafter until January of the present year, his counsel admitted, when he was obliged to get an emergency passport in order to return home.

Major William A. Turnbull, judge advocate, objected to the admission of the passport testimony, but it was allowed.

TROOPS RUSHED TO BELFAST

British Place Barbed Wire Entanglements Between Sinn Fein and Unionists

Feiners and Unionists at Belfast, according to a dispatch from that city.

The trouble has spread from the Sinn Fein section into the Orange quarter of the city. Firing was in progress during the morning.

The trouble began yesterday with a clash between Sinn Fein and Unionist workmen, which made it necessary to rush troops reinforcements into the city.

One person was killed and thirty wounded early in the night when troops fired upon a mob.

The first battalion of Royal Fusiliers left Aldershot for Ireland this afternoon.

A revised list of casualties puts the number of wounded at 40. One of the persons killed was a woman. Fifty-four arrests were made at Belfast.

The woman was killed while carrying a boy to a hospital, where the child's mother was dying.

The streets of Belfast are being patrolled by troops from Holyrood and Newtown. Another outbreak of firing is feared tonight.

Trouble between Sinn Feiners and Unionists at the Belfast shipyards have averted by the fact that many workmen failed to appear for work.

PUT UP WIRE BLOCKADE.

The Belfast correspondent of the Evening News reported that the British troops were erecting barb wire entanglements between the Sinn Fein and Unionist positions and a section of troops has been thrown around the trouble area.

There were several outbreaks of fire during the night, and a number of buildings, including six saloons, were looted.

A deputation of trade unionists called at No. 10 Downing street to discuss the Irish situation with Premier Lloyd George.

There have been many developments of varying degrees of importance in Ireland during the last twenty-four hours.

The police broke up a meeting of a Sinn Fein committee that was sitting at Carrick-on-Shannon to investigate the industrial resources of the counties of Leitrim and Roscommon, Colonel Wells, chairman of the Roscommon County Council, and Darrel Figgis were arrested.

FOOD TRAIN DESTROYED.

A train that was carrying food to the British troops at Dunglow was halted by masked men and the food stores destroyed.

Near Dungarvan two constables and a sergeant were held up and disarmed. The Sinn Fein court at Mallow-Hagar was dispersed by troops in an armored car.

Ten grand jurors were fined $250 each for their refusal to serve at the Cork assizes.

In the Clonmel district two attempts were made to attack barracks of the Royal Irish constabulary, but the attackers were driven off. The roads are blocked and wires cut over a radius of fifteen miles.

The appeal of the clergy of Tuam, County Galway, that the man responsible for the shooting up of the town be severely punished, has been answered by Sir Nevil Macready, commander of the British troops in Ireland.

Sir Nevil held that the murder of two policemen, which led to the trouble, "could not have occurred without the consent and connivance of the population." However, he deplored the retaliatory measures taken by the constabulary.

UNIONS SPLIT OVER AWARD

Representatives of Rail Workers Divided Over Acceptance or Rejection of Offer

R. R. Unions Split Over Wage Board Decision

By International News Service.

Chicago, July 22.—Representatives of the railroad unions after a hot meeting were divided over the question of accepting or rejecting the wage award granted the rail workers of the country by the United States Railroad Labor Board.

Seven of the unions, including three of the four largest brotherhoods, were reported to have accepted, or favored acceptance of, the award in its entirety and without reservations.

Seven others, it was declared, favored referring the award to the rank and file of their organizations with the recommendation that it be accepted. Two were reported to have decided in favor of ordering the award to a referendum of their members without recommendations, one to have rejected the award flatly and to have ordered the taking of a strike ballot, and one to have failed to reach a decision.

COMPROMISE POSSIBLE.

Concerted action of all the brotherhood representatives may yet be agreed upon, perhaps on a compromise agreement sending the award to a referendum vote of the 1,600,000 rail workers of the country. Many of the brotherhood chiefs declared today they would work for this.

Many bitter disagreements occurred during the all-night meeting. S. M. Heberling, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, declared that W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who was leading the fight for acceptance of the award without reservations, should be barred from the conference.

Here is how the unions were reported to be divided today:

For unreserved acceptance of the award—Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Switchmen's Union of North America, United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railroad Shop Laborers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Masters, Mates and Pilots of America.

FAVOR WORKERS' ACTION.

For referring the award to the rank and file with a recommendation that it be accepted—International Association of Machinists, Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders and Helpers of America and the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers.

For referring the award to the rank and file without recommendations—Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen and the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor.

For rejection of the award and the ordering of a strike ballot—Order of Railway Telegraphers.

Undecided—Order of Railway Conductors.

CONFESSED FORGER BLAMES COMELY WOMEN FOR DOWNFALL

GIRL FEARS SCANDAL EXPOSE

Stedman Dined Beautiful Brooklynite on Proceeds of Checks He Passed

New York, July 22.—Because he could not resist the women "when they were so beautiful," and because he knew he would find himself in the toils some day, Harry V. Stedman, aged thirty, "went the limit."

That was what he told detectives when they asked him why he had left a string of worthless checks for sums aggregating over $250,000 in his wake.

Stedman is the oldest son of the millionaire head of the banking firm of Stedman & Redfield, with offices in Boston and Hartford, Ct. He is in jail now, waiting for the grand jury to act, and somewhere in Brooklyn is a beautiful young married woman, mother of two children, who is in dreadful fear that her companionship with the handsome scion of the Hartford family may become known to her husband.

STOPPED AT NOTHING.

Stedman, according to his own story as related to detectives, stopped at nothing to obtain money with which to play the part of a million-aire's son.

According to his victims he freely traded on the name of Charles Evans Hughes, and it was on the strength of an alleged telephone conversation with Mr. Hughes that he obtained $200 from Harry Fink, proprietor of the Ritz restaurants in Brooklyn, the check for which caused his arrest.

"It all came easy, so easy that I could hardly describe it to you," Stedman told the detectives today. "But I guess it's all over now. The only person in the world who might help me is my father, and I guess he's through with me now."

The ease with which he obtained the money astounded the police, but Stedman explained:

GAVE $250,000 CHECK.

"You see, my dad and I were pals until we fell out. I learned considerable about the banking business. I knew just what methods to employ and it came easy. But I had to work fast."

The youth told some of his methods by which he fleeced his victims. He said he took a check for $250,000 to the National City Bank and deposited it on one occasion. A friend was with him, who readily loaned him $700 after seeing the deposit made.

"Of course, I couldn't draw against the $250,000 check," Stedman said. "It would first have to be certified."

The police say Stedman has told of purchasing a $15,000 automobile, jewelry and other valuable items with worthless checks.

Stedman Repudiated by Father; Not a College Man

Hartford, Ct., July 22.—Neither the arrest nor probable conviction of Harry V. Stedman, held by the New York police for passing fraudulent checks, is of interest to his family here, according to a statement made today by his father, Harry B. Stedman, of Stedman & Redfield, bankers and brokers, of No. 18 Asylum street.

"Scarcely a day goes by without my being constantly humiliated by some fresh sensation," said Mr. Stedman. "Yes, he is my oldest son. I have seen nothing of him for ten years. The family will not interest itself in his case, nor do we wish to hear of him. No matter what he says, he is not a college graduate."

THINK BARNEY TOOK NORTH ADAMS AUTO

North Adams, July 22.—Information received by the Adams police from the Boston police leads to the belief that Herman L. Barney, leader of the auto bandit gang who gave himself up following his escape from Charlestown prison, may be implicated in this city during his "vacation" from jail. The Boston police report the recovery of an automobile following a license plate that was stolen from a car owned by Alfred Little of Adams while the machine was on the streets of this city three weeks ago. It is reported also that Herman Barney, whom several people state they recognized as being present in this city, may have appropriated the car of Mr. Little and later transferred the license numbers to the other car.

PLANT STRIKE CASE SET FOR OCTOBER

On a motion of Joseph A. Dennison and Robert Gallagher, attorneys for Thomas G. Plant Company, Judge Walt ordered a decree confirming the report of Frank L. Simpson as master in the Plant strike case.

The matter of final decree, Judge Walt stated, must be heard in the next session, and on the motion of counsel for the Plant Company, he assigned this case for trial on the first Monday in October, the first day the merit session sits.

WILL FENCE CITY POINT BEACH

Breaking of Bottles Cause for Arrest; Time Limit on Bathing Suits

A fence will be erected at City Point within a week in an effort to stop the broken glass nuisance, it was announced by the park and recreation department. Cement posts will be set up along the beach and chains strung. Bathers will not be allowed milk or tonic bottles on the water side of the fence, nor to eat there.

It is also likely that some rules will be adopted as to the length of time users of city bathing suits will be permitted to keep them. Last Sunday there were about 100,000 persons at the Point and many were there to go in the water. But some came early and kept the suits all day.

Deputy Commissioner W. P. Long said that the time has arrived to take positive action against persons, who are so indifferent to the welfare of bare feet. He said that any one who carries a bottle beyond the fence will be subject to arrest.

Patrolman Frank O'Brien, who is detailed to the beach, said that some persons do not understand that glass should not be broken on the beach.

"Among a certain class," he said, "it would not seem to be a perfect day if they did not get a bottle of tonic and break the bottle on a stone."

STORROW FIGHTS COAL EXPORTS

Summons Boston Dealers to Confer With Interstate Board at New York

James J. Storrow and an advisory committee of Boston coal men are in New York conferring with the Interstate Commerce Commission relative to the coal problem that confronts New England. They seek tidewater deliveries, which Mr. Storrow claims is New England's greatest hope for allaying a grave fuel famine next Winter.

Instead of returning to Boston, Mr. Storrow wired for the members of the committee to meet him in New York at once. Those who responded were Borden Covel, S. B. Willett, Robert Grant and George Hawley. They are all tidewater coal men.

Mr. Storrow and the committee will impress upon the Interstate Commerce Commission that the matter of adequate coal deliveries to New England is a water-haul problem and they seek an order to divert from 20 to 30 per cent. of the coal now at tidewater, chiefly at Hampton Roads, to New England ports. Practically all coal dumped at tidewater is being exported and the New Englanders feel that export shipments should be curtailed.

Women Advised How to Register to Vote

Mrs. True Worthy White, of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, is writing for the Boston American a series of articles telling how to become registered for full suffrage in the Fall.

Because it seems quite probable that a thirty-sixth State will ratify the amendment, and because women, through inexperience, may be denied presidential suffrage, by neglecting to register or through the failing to understand the various steps leading to registration, Mrs. White will explain all the details. The fourth article follows:

By MRS. TRUE WORTHY WHITE.

Where does one register?

That is a question which women who work, in one town, for instance, and live in another, may well ask themselves.

One's voting residence is determined by the place where one lives the first day of April, preceding the States election. In case a person sleeps in one precinct, eats in another and works in a third, the law decides that a person lives where he sleeps.

The method of registering is as follows: In each town and city (except Boston), having 300 or more voters, a board or registrars is appointed the first day of April, preceding the November election. In towns having fewer than 300 voters, the town clerk and selectmen act as registrars. Registrars must be residents of one each of the two principal parties and have full charge of registration or voting. They take office April 1.

LEMONS POURING IN; PRICES TAKE TUMBLE

From the price of $12 per box of twenty-five dozen a year ago, lemons have found their way down to $2.50 largely because of the heavy receipts of lemons at New York from Messina, Naples and Palermo. Temperature and the scarcity of sugar have restrained the demand.

KIDNAPED GIRL HOME, DAZED

Florence Rush, Suffering From Effects of Drugs, Remembers Little of Time Away

Florence Rush, aged seventeen, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Rush of No. 63 West Eagle street, East Boston, who is believed to have been kidnaped by six men who enticed her into an automobile at the Revere Beach boulevard last Sunday, has been found.

The missing girl walked into the home of her chum, Gertrude Smith, of No. 245 Meridian street, East Boston, dazed and apparently drugged.

The harrowing experiences to which the girl has been subjected since her disappearance last Sunday is mutely revealed by her condition. She is in a serious condition and unable to recall the happenings since taken into the automobile. She talked at random, apparently suffering from drug poisoning.

"I don't know how I got home, a woman gave me $1.50 and I was then on a train," she said.

This statement bears out the police theory that the headquarters for the alleged kidnapers is in Providence, the fare from which is $1.42.

The girl talked about being near water, and a blonde woman who pulled her hair, but made no connection in her statements.

Miss Rush left her home with the Smith girl last Sunday and went to Revere. During a rain storm while they were under a shelter, they were enticed into the automobile in which six men were riding. Miss Smith jumped from the machine a few minutes later.

Miss Henrietta M. Pierce, seventy-eight years old, and a daughter of the late Samuel B. Pierce, is dead at the Pierce homestead, No. 14 Marsh street, Dorchester. She is survived by a brother, Dr. M. V. Pierce of Hilton, and a sister, Mrs. Robert B. Williams of Perrin street, Roxbury.

TWO YARMOUTH FLIERS KILLED

Drop 2,000 Feet and Are Buried in Mud of Morass, Under Wrecked Airplane

Yarmouth, July 22.—Plunging from a height of 2,000 feet, when their airplane became disabled, C. O. Weld, pilot, said to be a resident of Framingham, and George L. Hall, instructor, landed in a water covered bog in the woods near Hathaway Pond and were buried under three feet of mud.

Hours after the accident, a squad of men from the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, with the aid of ladders, ropes and an auto truck, managed to remove the engine, which had locked all efforts to recover the bodies.

Hall's body was first removed and Weld's arms, which were under the wreckage of the machine, were later taken from the bog.

The men had been here about three weeks taking up passengers. They were testing the machine, which was partly owned by Weld, and had twice looped the loop, when the airplane, swaying and turning in the air, commenced its downward plunge.

The machine struck tail down, driving the engine back into the fuselage and burying the two occupants underneath it in the mud.

The landing field Weld had used is on Aberdeen Hall road, near West Yarmouth and he was headed for the field when the accident occured.

Both men had been living at the Englewood Hotel, West Yarmouth.

WOMAN JUMPS IN RIVER AND SAVES BOY

Haverhill, July 22.—Mrs. Rose Christoforo jumped into the Merrimack river fully dressed and succeeded in dragging three-year-old Romeo Spero safely to shore where Motorcycle Officer William J. Murphy took the youngster to a doctor's office. The boy fell into the river while playing on the embankment near the River street carbarns. His cries attracted Mrs. Christoforo, who was doing housework in her nearby home.

BOY TO BE EXECUTED IF GOVERNOR FAILS TO ACT

New York, July 22.—Elmer Hyatt, eighteen, of Rochester, a prisoner in Sing Sing's death house, will be executed a week from tonight unless Governor Smith intervenes. No slayer under twenty was ever electrocuted at Sing Sing. James Byrd, of Tennessee, who, like Hyatt, killed a policeman, is to be executed tonight. He has made no reprieve and friends are still working to get the governor to spare his life. Byrd is twenty-three.

"Vamp" Chided Jonas for His Bogus Love

Chicago, July 22.—Further extracts from the diary of Pauline Meglige, who shot her married "soul mate," Julius Jonas, and then killed herself, indicate that with his affection fast slipping from her grip, she sought to shame him back to her by declaring that she had sacrificed everything for him and that he should in return discard his wife for her.

She chides him for holding such a low estimation of love, declaring that true love is a spiritual and not a physical state. Tiring of his quotations and passages from literature in which her diatribes are couched, she seeks an order to divert from 20 to 30 per cent. of the coal now at tidewater, chiefly at Hampton Roads, to New England ports. Practically all coal dumped at tidewater is being exported and the New Englanders feel that export shipments should be curtailed.

BECOMES DEPRESSED.

January 20—Had great difficulty in doing my work and feel that I will scarcely be able to hold out to carry out my plans. Oh, that you were only written following receipt of a letter which contained high-flown quotations of love, and underlined quotations which tended to justify the relationship between the two. The letter was answered by Miss Meglige as follows:)

July: "Circumstances and surroundings have little effect upon the serenity of mind. Nothing can blot out sight of the divine and moral principle of life, without which all else has no value.

"How can one entertain a contented attitude of mind and be happy when the one you hold as your divine companion is breaking the first and fundamental law of life. Your idea of life is to live just to satisfy the flesh —quote all the fine literature and poems and then say just ignore it! I do in the flesh and be happy, for happiness is a state of mind inside of me.

TALK OF "REAL MARRIAGE."

"I know quite well what is right, for I want you to do so or I can't respect you, but I can't and won't do just re-read the quotation you sent me on the 'real marriage.' No doubt you deduced the wrong meaning of the article or you probably would not have sent it to me as a consolation.

"I found the passage in Emerson's essay on love. What he meant to convey was that love is not merely a sexual attraction, above physical beauty, and the point I would make in connection with it is that, while this is not love, nor is there any love without passion. The whole cause of failure in the love between man and woman is that it is based on physical charms from the male's point of view (who, of course, rules the situation). The homeliest face, backed by soul, can betray at the same time an attraction far more lasting to the heart of another than a beautiful but unloving face.

"The following was written and crossed out: 'Dear Meglige,' on a separate bit of paper enclosed with the letter.

"You are talking riddles to me, which you cannot answer or explain yourself. I am full of love for my heart on my sleeve. How about you telling Mrs. Jonas all about me and compromising my good name and causing complications. But I think it can see through all that and the motive that prompted that was not intense love for me.

"God will not manifest himself to cowards. I realise only too well, as Emerson says, 'the highest love you can pay for a thing is to ask for it.'

January 21—Had another one of those wretched declarations from him. It means nothing. Wrote that I had decided for mother's sake to delay my action and that I would not refer to the divorce nor to any connection with it again. This will, of course, delight him.

January 23—How am I going to my duties? It is more than I can see. I feel dazed at times and am going to pieces. Will see Pollyanna tonight with Mathilde. (Pollyanna was the fantastic apostle of optimism. A play suggested optimism in every possible form and indeed inspired to send Jule a clipping on the subject.)

"But why is the optimist happy. How can he be an optimist when everything seems to go wrong? There is no life or reason. Oh, there is a reason. It is faith. The optimist believes in himself. He believes in others. He believes in his possibilities. He knows his usefulness; he knows that he is needed—now and in the future. His optimism is drawn from an unshakable belief in the sources of right and in the inevitable trend of all history. This knowledge gives him courage, so he works and smiles and wins. Are you an optimist?

"Please, dear, try," wrote Pauline under this item.)

Love-Crazed Girl's Victim Is Blind

Chicago, July 22—Out of the darkness of his room in Montrose avenue Hospital, Julius Jonas asked in a whisper:

"Is Jean still with Mathilde?"

He stirred restlessly until he found his wife's hand.

"Yes, it's shining," answered Mrs. Jonas.

The man who last Sunday morning missed by a hair's breadth being shot to death by Pauline Meglige, who after firing a bullet into his temple, killed herself, sighed gratefully.

"I'm glad of that," he said, then added, "I wish I could see Jean."

"You poor baby," he said, and that was all just then.

For Julius Jonas will be blind for life. The last ray of hope that his sight might be saved was snuffed out when Dr. Herman A. Moje operated in a last attempt to repair the optic nerve.

"He will never see again," said Dr. Moje.

ASK ENGLISH HIGH MEN $1 A YEAR EACH

Every graduate of the Boston English High School was asked to contribute $1 for each year since graduation toward the school's centenary fund in a bulletin issued today by Robert Seaver, secretary of the centenary committee. The committee plans to raise $150,000 for the celebration.

G. O. P. FUND OF $20,000,000

Roosevelt Charges That Sum Probably Will Be the Campaign Total

Washington, July 22.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic vice-presidential candidate, today estimated that the Republican campaign fund may reach the staggering total of $20,000,000 before the election in November.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy related the details of the manner in which the Republicans are undertaking to raise the huge campaign fund first attributed to that party by Democratic Presidential Candidate Cox in his speech on Monday before the Democratic National Committeemen.

Roosevelt had just returned to his desk in the Navy Department from Columbus, Ohio, when he declared:

"The other party has districted the country for the specific purpose of raising money, and you understand each district is to furnish a certain quota. For instance, Dutchess County, New York, has been assessed $30,000, and Mrs. Vincent Astor has been placed in charge of a committee to raise funds in that county.

"If you apply that rate or average to places throughout the country, some of which, I am told, you will get some startling figures. Taking out of the account large areas in the South and making all allowances for districts elsewhere and figuring only on the probabilities, it is not at all unlikely that the total may reach $20,000,000."

Herbert Wallingford, Democratic committeeman from Dutchess County, was present when Roosevelt made this statement and he concurred in all that was said.

MAN SERVING SENTENCE AT HOLYOKE WANTED HERE

Holyoke, July 22.—Word was received here from the Boston police department that James Mullen, now serving a two months' sentence in the House of Correction here for assault is wanted in Boston for default. The local police were suspicious of Mullen at the time of his arrest and sent copies of his finger prints broadcast. Mullen has a long court record in Boston.

On March 15, 1917, he was sentenced to six months in the Suffolk County House of Correction here for larceny. Sentence was suspended. His probation was recalled on Nov. 29, 1918, and a waiting sentence he defaulted.

ARMY TO SELL CANNED FOOD AT PRE-WAR PRICES

Washington, July 22.—Millions of dollars worth of canned meats are to be placed on the market by the War Department at prices below the prewar quotations, according to an announcement made at the division of sales office.

The meats, which include roast beef, bacon, corned beef and corned beef hash, are to be offered for domestic consumption only and will be disposed of in retail and wholesale stores in all parts of the country.

Wine Pourer Holds Job One Day

Detroit, July 21—For one day Robert C. Hooper of Connellsville, Pa., held the best job in Detroit.

Robert was hired to pour wine into bottles for the laboratories of the Detroit Stearns Drug Company, but poured so much into himself that he was found Wednesday evening unconscious in a gutter near the plant.

Judge Marsh fined him $5, which hardly covers the cost of the materials involved.

Their golden wedding anniversary was celebrated Wednesday. They have three sons, Edwin Carr and Arthur B. Carr of Malden and Chester T. Carr of Waltham. Mrs. Carr is the seventh great-great-granddaughter of Myles Standish.

WIDOW KILLED BY AUTO LEAVES FIVE CHILDREN

Worcester, July 22.—Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Pinkham, No. 562 Cambridge street, who was instantly killed when struck by an automobile operated by Henry Freeman of No. 88 Millbury street, will be held tomorrow morning from the Church of the Sacred Heart. She leaves five orphan children, all minors. Neighbors are caring for them.

PULL TEETH TO CURE SLEEPING SICKNESS

New York, July 22.—Extracting the teeth of Paul Sleide, a Sing Sing convict, having failed to cure him of sleeping sickness, surgeons yesterday tried another method to try to cure him. The surgeons tapped his spinal column.

Sleide contracted the sleeping sickness in New York City before he was given five years for receiving stolen property.

HOLD FUNERAL OF GIRL SUBWAY VICTIM TODAY

Funeral services for Miss Minnie S. Goodwin, aged twenty-three, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Goodman, of No. 55 Stanwood street, Roxbury, who was killed when she fell or jumped in front of an inbound train at the Broadway Station of the Cambridge Tunnel, were held today at her late residence. Burial will be in the Beth Abraham Cemetery, West Roxbury.

PETTIBONE MET GIRL IN SECRET

Name of Nurse Is Brought Into Murder Trial; Witnesses Tell of Auto Rides

Manchester, Vt., July 22.—The name of Helen Irene Guillow, for love of whom, the State charges, Myron Madison Pettibone poisoned his wife with strychnine, proved the most prominent part in the murder trial proceedings today.

The trial had been delayed to allow Attorney Joseph C. Jones, one of the defendant's counsel, to attend the funeral of his son's wife in Ireland.

The introduction of the young nurse's name caused a mild sensation among the audience. Through several witnesses the State hoped to show that Pettibone and Miss Guillow had met clandestinely since August, 1919, and that they had taken taxi rides together along unfrequented roads in Vermont and New York State.

The first mention of the name of the young woman was during the examination of "Col" Bowen, a former taxi driver in Bennington, who testified that in August last year Pettibone hired him on two occasions to drive the couple to Hoosick Falls, N. Y., eighteen miles from Bennington, and that when they returned Pettibone had requested the driver "not to say anything about the trips."

Corroborative testimony of their many taxi rides and secret meetings before the death of Mrs. Pettibone, then followed in quick succession, by witnesses called to bear out the State's contention that it was for love of this young woman that Pettibone poisoned his wife.

BORROWS TOBACCO.

Interest in the case was further enhanced with the appearance among the witnesses outside of the court house of Francis Kinney, a young mulatto, who has been called by the government to testify to his friendship with Miss Guillow.

Kinney, it is claimed by the prosecution, preceded Pettibone as an admirer of the young woman.

The comparative cool and somewhat indifferent attitude of the defendant during the earlier testimony was completely changed at the first mention of Miss Guillow's name. He played up to his feelings by picking up a newspaper from the counsel table in front of him. He endeavored to read, but his nervousness was apparent. At times his hands shook. Finding himself unable to read he leaned over to one of his attorneys and borrowed a chew of tobacco.

Michael Tufferaldi, employed as a fireman at the Putnam Memorial Hospital in Bennington, where Miss Guillow served as a nurse, testified that he often saw the young woman and Pettibone talking together in the hospital corridors when he called there, as an undertaker, to remove a body.

Frank O'Toole, the second taxi driver called, testified to at least a score of trips which Pettibone took with the young woman, sometimes to Hoosick Falls, sometimes to North Adams and on several occasions to Miss Guillow's home in Sodom, N. Y.

OPPOSED AUTOPSY.

On the occasions, he said, he took the couple to the nurse's home during the afternoon, left them there and called for them in the evening. Returning, he stated, he drove to a street near the hospital and the couple walked to the institution.

Deputy Sheriff Edward Shanahan, who trailed the couple for State Attorney Graves following the death of Mrs. Pettibone, testified he also saw the couple together in Bennington, in Hoosick Falls and other communities.

The alleged poisoner fought hard against having an autopsy performed on his wife. Roy Paddock, the undertaker in charge of Mrs. Pettibone's remains and who was associated with the accused in the undertaking business, testified.

Under questioning of Prosecutor Graves Paddock admitted that on the morning of the death of Mrs. Pettibone asked him to do all he could to stop an autopsy.

Graves asked Paddock to whom witness thought Pettibone wanted to make appeal, and Paddock replied he took it for granted that the defendant wanted him to take the matter up with his wife's kin. Paddock did not do as Pettibone requested.

Dr. Charles S. Whitney, toxicologist attached to the Vermont State Laboratory at Burlington, testified that a fatal dose of strychnine was found in Mrs. Pettibone's stomach. This, he declared, showed that a fatal dose must have been given the woman and it had been absorbed in the body.

TINKHAM TRIES TO KEEP FIREMEN'S JOBS

Congressman Tinkham today sent the following telegram to Major General Quartermaster-General, War Department, Washington, D. C.:

"I have learned that firemen employed in the interest of the Government will be held tomorrow morning from the Church of the Sacred Heart, the leaves five orphan children, all minors. Neighbors are caring for them.

THIEF WAS DRESSED IN SOLDIER'S UNIFORM

Lawrence, July 22.—Charged with larceny, Timothy McDonald and Michael Hendry were sentenced in District Court here yesterday to terms of six months each in the House of Correction. Hendry wore a soldier's uniform, but officers at Camp Devens, where he was supposed to have been stationed, stated they did not know him. He and his companion were arrested in South Lawrence while they were seeking to dispose of stolen jewelry.

ARLINGTON MERCHANTS' OUTING AT WRENTHAM

Plans announced for the annual outing of the Arlington Board of Trade Wednesday, August 4, include an automobile trip to Lake Pearl, Wrentham, where bouting, fishing, bathing, dancing, baseball, games and refreshments will be enjoyed. Arthur Birch, David Buttrick and Rufus W. Buttrick comprise the committee of arrangements.

FOLEY OUT FOR LEGION HEAD

New 101st Commander or Brig.-Gen. Sherburne May Succeed Colonel Logan

Colonel Thomas F. Foley of Worcester, commander of the new 101st Infantry, Massachusetts National Guard, and Brigadier-General John H. Sherburne of Brookline, are being considered as candidates to succeed Colonel Edward L. Logan as commander of the Massachusetts Department of the American Legion. The convention will be held at Springfield August 27 and 28.

Other candidates are A. Platt Andrews of Gloucester and James T. Duane, present chairman of the Legion's Welfare Board.

Among the candidates for vice-commander are John A. Colbert, commander of the Belmont post; Fred H. Doyle, commander of the Roxbury post; Dr. Harry C. Martin of Springfield and Luther Faulkner of Lowell. Only one opponent has been named as yet for Leo A. Spillane, present State adjutant. He is Peter C. Borre of the Suffolk County Council.

The most popular choice thus far for State treasurer seems to be William P. Maloney of the All Dorchester Post, while two county councils are supporting Charles J. McGill of the Herbert Akroyd Post at Marlboro for State historian.

The announcement that State Legion Chaplain Michael J. O'Connor will not run for office again has brought out the names of the Rev. B. J. Farrel of Newton, Chaplain Lyman H. Rollins and the Rev. Oakes Boucher of New Bedford.

POLES READY FOR AN ARMISTICE WITH SOVIETS

London, July 22.—The Polish National Council of Defence has decided to make overtures to Moscow for an armistice at once on the Russo Polish battle front, said a Warsaw dispatch today to the Jewish delegation that is attending the International Zionist conference.

It was said the offer would be sent by wireless as the quickest means of getting it to the attention of the Soviet government. It was learned from the same source that the Polish National Council of Defence has decided to create a new government at Warsaw.

RAYMOND P. DELANO IN SENATORIAL RACE

Raymond P. Delano of Mather street, an attorney and former president of the Dorchester Board of Trade, has circulated papers for the Republican nomination for the Senate from Wards 17, 18 and 20.

The district is strongly Democratic in politics and the Republican nomination is being waged by Representative John J. Carey of Ward 18 and former Representative Joseph McGrath of Ward 17. Senator Charles Winchester, who has served four terms, has not announced his attitude.

CONVICT FREED TO FACE TRIAL FOR DUAL MURDER

Auburn, N. Y., July 22.—Harold V. Lamkin, a convict at Auburn prison, was released by Governor Smith and turned over to the New Jersey authorities to stand trial with Charles Parchand, now in Sing Sing, for murder. Lamkin is charged with having participated in the murder of Edith Janney and Edward Kupfer who were slain near Perth Amboy, N. J., August 21, 1918.

CHILDREN AND MATCHES CAUSE DORCHESTER FIRE

Children playing with matches beneath a back piazza at No. 78 Millet street, Dorchester, caused $25 damage and gave firemen a long run. The property is owned and occupied by Patrick Doherty.

LOST HERO NOW ON WAY HOME

Dorchester Man Returning After Strange Experience in France

Lieutenant Bernard J. McNellis of No. 150 Glenway street, Dorchester, is on his way home from France today, after a strange experience in which he was literally "mislaid" for a year by the army authorities.

Word of his coming was received with joy by his mother, who has postponed a dangerous surgical operation until she sees him again.

It was received with both joy and a certain measure of pride by his sister, Miss Esther McNellis, whose insistent appeals to the War Department resulted after eleven months in the "finding" of the lost soldier.

Lieutenant McNellis went overseas with the 101st Infantry as top sergeant of L. Company.

He was promoted on the field, and decorated for valor. Twice gassed in the Chemin des Dames action in March, 1918, he was sent to a hospital at Bordeaux, and released in August of the same year, under orders to proceed to Brest for embarkation home.

It was then that the Dorchester soldier was "lost." Seized with faintness as he was passing through Angouleme, he was carried to the train and sent to a French hospital.

Under treatment for several months, he found when he was recovered that he was hopelessly buried under army red tape, which was likely to keep him in France for the rest of his life.

His command was gone, he could not get assigned to another unit, he could not move without orders from superiors, and nobody could decide who his lawful superior was.

Kindly gone officers took care of him in Angouleme, and he was employed as some officer there for a time. In the meantime he communicated with his sister, who began to bombard Washington with appeals that her brother be sent home.

The sister's final desperate plea, telling of her mother's grief at the soldier's continued absence, brought results. McNellis turned up in Paris yesterday, authorized to proceed homeward. He is twenty-seven years old and a graduate of St. Francis de Sales School and Boston College High School.

PHYSICIANS CONTINUE THEIR LEPROSY TESTS

Leprosy experts today continued their tests of the two "patients" at the Boston Detention Hospital in Southampton street, to determine whether the pair are free from all germs of the disease.

Under the direction of Dr. Victor Safford of the Boston health department the men underwent a complete physical examination, but the physicians in charge say that no definite conclusions as to the completeness of the cure until further bacteriological tests have been performed.

DORCHESTER OUTING AT NANTASKET NEXT WEEK

Next Wednesday the Dorchester Board of Trade will hold its eighth annual outing at Nantasket Beach. Members and friends will leave Field's Corner at 2 o'clock. Invitations have been sent to leading State and city officials by Secretary John J. Dailey. There will be athletic events prior to the banquet at Hotel Nepoli and a ball game between the Real Estate Brokers and the Dorchester Builders.

POPE TO RECEIVE K. C. PILGRIMS ON AUGUST 29

New York, July 22.—August 29 has been proclaimed as Knights of Columbus Day at the Vatican by Pope Benedict XV., according to a communication received here from Archbishop John Bonzano, apostolic delegate to the United States, on that day, the message says, the Pope will receive the K. of C. pilgrimage which is to sail from New York for Rome on August 7.

OPPOSES INCOME TAX MONEY FOR SCHOOLS

Worcester, July 22.—William W. Knights of Hopedale has filed a petition for a writ of mandamus against State Treasurer Frederick J. Burrell, his purpose being to prove that Section 2 of Chapter 269 of the Massachusetts laws is unconstitutional. The law relates to the payment by the State Treasurer of the taxes levied on incomes in excess of certain amount to cities and towns for school purposes.

Weds Widow of Same Name

Brockton, July 22.—Mrs. Mattie J. Grout and Peter Grout, formerly of New York, were married at the bride's home, No. 17 Brooks street, Rev. Joseph Cooper of the Central Methodist Church officiated.

WELFARE FEDERATION TO UNITE IN DRIVE

Worcester, July 22.—David W. Armstrong has been selected as permanent secretary of the Worcester Welfare Federation, consisting of eighteen social welfare organizations. The Federation intends to conduct a joint drive for funds hereafter, rather than hold a series of small drives.

HAWAIIAN DROPS DEAD SINGING FOR MACHINE

New York, July 22.—While singing for a talking machine record in the Victor laboratories, No. 42 West Thirty-eighth street, George B. Nahaolelua, a Hawaiian singer, of No. 756 Eighth avenue, dropped dead. Nahaolelua, who was forty-five, was a member, of the Hawaiian Trio that appeared in many Broadway productions.

NOME BOUND FLIERS REACH GRAND RAPIDS

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 22.—Two of the army airplanes enroute from Mineola to Nome, Alaska, reached here from Erie, Pa., covering the distance in four hours and fifteen minutes. A third plane had previously landed in this city. The fourth machine in the expedition was forced to land near Erie after developing engine trouble.

ELEPHANT TUSKS, RAGS AND DOLLS ON STEAMER

The American steamer West Isleta has arrived in port with a cargo consisting of 525 bales of rags and cuttings, dolls and glass from Germany, and 1,700 tons of rags, 35 elephant tusks and cases of machinery, wood and crockery from Antwerp.

PLYMOUTH MAN RUNS AMUCK

Opposed Stepdaughter's Marriage; Drinks 3 Pints of Liquor and Smashes Windows

Plymouth, July 22.—Because his step-daughter, Jennie Quinshion, left a note to her mother saying she was going away to marry the man her parents had forbidden her to see, Henry Quinshion of Nelson court, Plymouth, is alleged to have threatened to shoot both the girl and her fiance.

The nearest he got to this was to smash up the windows in his home, after disposing of three pints of liquor brought over from France recently by his brother.

Chief Armstrong arrested him.

Armstrong suffered a cut on his hand from broken glass attempting to arrest Quinshion.

Arraigned in the police court a charge again the defendant for disturbance of the peace was continued until Saturday.

Quinshion is out on bail and declares he is going back to France. It is said that if he does the police will drop the charges.

The trouble began when both parents visited Chief Armstrong separately and were unable to gain his assisting in preventing the marriage of Jenny, as both parties are over twenty-one years of age.

WINCHESTER WOMAN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Fannie Rouse, of No. 33 Russell street, Winchester, was treated at the Winchester Hospital for injuries received in an automobile accident at the corner of Highland avenue and Forest street when a machine she was riding in collided with a motorcycle.

William Gratto, father of the injured woman, was driving the auto and in an attempt to avoid the accident swung his machine into a pole, four others in the car were shaken up.

Douglas H. Ashley, of No. 233 Washington street, Melrose, was operating the motorcycle and received multiple abrasions.

PROVIDENCE CHAMBER VOTES FOR OPEN SHOP

Providence, R. I. July 22.—Returns of a referendum vote on the question of open shop by the members of the Chamber of Commerce here showed 232 members in favor. The question was submitted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States along with several other questions which were all favorably voted upon.

PAY RAISE GRANTED WORKERS IN HAMPDEN

Springfield, July 22.—An increase in salaries of 10 to 15 per cent. was awarded today to all employes of Hampden County at a meeting of county commission. A petition for more pay was filed with the commission several months ago. The new rates are retroactive to June 1 and affect about fifty persons.

One-Armed Speeder in Connecticut Net

Greenwich, Conn., July 22.—H. Morton Merriman, prosperous New York silk merchant, is said to be the first one-armed speeder to be arrested here.

Merriman was arrested by Officer John Tierney, who said he was speeding at the rate of sixty miles an hour, in spite of the fact that one arm is off at the shoulder. He gave a $50 bond for his appearance in court. He is said to be an expert driver.

Injured by Falling Case

BIRTHS BARRED BY LANDLORD

Mayor's Rent Committee Summons Roxbury Man as Result of Tenant's Charges

Charged with prohibiting the birth of children by his tenants, the Mayor's rent and housing committee has summoned a Roxbury landlord to appear before them next Monday.

It is alleged that the landlord refused to let an apartment to one woman, until she had promised him that she would have no children while occupying the suite.

Another tenant, according to charges, was told to move because she had children and the family below her objected to their presence in the building. Childless tenants were, the case favored as against those with families, it is alleged.

FRANKLIN COUNTY GIRLS WIN AT BREAD-MAKING

Worcester, July 22.—Seven junior league teams, representing the farm bureaus in that number of Massachusetts counties, contested in the bread making tryout held in the Winslow street school. The honors were awarded the Franklin County team composed of Lois Hunt of Deerfield and Julia Howland of Conway.

The winning team will represent the state at the Eastern States Exposition which will take place in Springfield in September.

HARDING AIDS SUFFRAGISTS

Wires Mrs. Catt Will Recommend Ratification to G. O. P. Men in Tennessee Legislature

By Universal Service.

Marion, O., July 22.—Desiring to do all possible to help the suffrage ratification, Senator Harding sent the following telegram to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National Woman's Suffrage Association.

"I am exceedingly glad to learn you are in Tennessee seeking to consummate the ratification of the equal suffrage amendment. If any of the Republican members of the Tennessee assembly should ask my opinion as to their course, I would cordially recommend an immediate favorable action."

The telegram was sent by the Senator after a conference with a committee of the association which came to Marion to request that he assist in the ratification of the amendment by the Tennessee Legislature.

The delegation was composed of Miss Mary Olcott, Mrs. W. H. Allen and Mrs. James Stokes, all of Ridgefield, Conn., and Mrs. George A. Soden of Chicago.

BRITAIN PASSES U.S. IN SHIPS

Now Leads by Over a Million Tons Under Construction, According to Lloyds

By Universal Service.

London, July 22.—"America's challenge to Britain's sea trade supremacy has been met and defeated." Thus may be summed up the conclusion of the majority of the big London newspapers in commenting on the Lloyds Register returns for the past quarter, showing that merchant ship building in England now beats all previous records and has outdistanced American construction by nearly 1,500,000 tons.

The comparative figures of tonnage under construction show that in March, 1919, the United States had 4,185,532 tons as against Britain's 2,254,845 in the construction yards.

U. S. LED IN 1919.

The tables have been completely turned since. In June, 1920, the United States was building 2,595,956 tons, while Britain was building 3,878,133 tons.

Northcliffe's Times, commenting on the figures says: "While it is perfectly natural that the American nation should possess a large mercantile marine, many will doubt whether in the difficult times which seem to lie ahead, conditions of the shipping industry will be sufficiently attractive to permit shipbuilding to become one of the leading industries of the United States."

The Daily Chronicle says: "The United States no longer directly challenges our supremacy, but she is a competitor to be reckoned with—indeed, one who makes it essential that we should work unremittingly if we are to maintain our lead."

WARNS AGAINST JUBILATION.

An even stronger warning against uncalculating jubilation is uttered by Archibald Hurd, the noted marine writer, in the Daily Telegraph.

"The hectic war conditions in the United States have passed, many orders for emergency ships have been cancelled and a number of exotic establishments are closing down. That, however, should not encourage us to throw our caps in the air, for there are indications that we have reached the top peak owing to the high cost of construction and the tendency of freight to fall, while the shipping movement is in the United States are settling down to a steady stride."

BERKSHIRE CARMEN THREATEN TO STRIKE

North Adams, July 22.—Residents of Berkshire County are now confronted with the likelihood of another suspension of trolley service. Motormen and conductors employed by the Berkshire Street Railway Company have presented an ultimatum to General Manager Richmond that they will go on strike tomorrow at midnight unless either their demands for $6.40 for an eight-hour day are granted, or unless the wage question is submitted to an arbitration board. Manager Richmond has offered a 10 per cent increase, which was unanimously rejected.

$511,821,500 IN WAR RISKS APPLIED FOR

Washington, D. C., July 22.—Applications for converted war risk insurance policies total $511,821,500, Director R. G. Cholmsley-Jones of the War Risk Bureau announced today. The figures are part of a comprehensive report the director is preparing which will be ready in December. The number of applications approved is 152,979.

BARBERS TO MEET AT NORTH ADAMS AUG. 15

North Adams, July 22.—Several hundred delegates will be welcomed here at the annual convention of the State Barbers' Association, which will open Sunday, August 15. Officers for the year will be elected and an entertainment program will be provided for the visitors.

SOLDIERS TO BE TAUGHT 160 DAYS EACH YEAR

The War Department has directed that 480 hours be allowed for educational and vocational training in carrying out the present plan of the Northeastern Department. This training will start October 1 and continue till May 31. There will be one hundred and sixty working days not counting Saturdays, Sundays or holidays with four hours' work a day.

VAIN SEARCH FOR GIRL WHO FLED DUXBURY HOME

Search through several states for fourteen year-old Helen Lucas of Philadelphia, who was last seen in an automobile speeding toward Kingston has proved fruitless. The girl had been working at the Society of Saint Margaret's summer home at Duxbury, where she was sent following the deathbed request of her mother, who died recently.

ELY READY TO QUIT FOR UNITY OF PARTY

Westfield, July 22.—Former District Attorney Joseph H. Ely issued a statement today in which he declared that he would withdraw as a candidate against Richard H. Long in the primaries if his entering the field would tend to disrupt the Democratic party in Massachusetts.

SICK MAN FALLS TO DEATH FROM WINDOW

Providence, July 22.—Frank H. Reynolds, aged 65, of No. 104 Sutton street, was killed when he fell from a second story window in his home. He had been ill for sometime and it is believed that he walked to the window during a delirious spell. His wife witnessed the fatal fall.

How Much is a Million?

The moment you mention a million dollars to some people, they are antagonistic.

They imagine that a million dollars represents a tremendous part of the national wealth.

Instead it represents only one penny for each inhabitant of our country.

Swift & Company last year had an output of 5,500,000,000 pounds. A profit of one cent per pound would have resulted in $55,000,000.

The actual net profit was $14,000,000 or one-fourth of what we would have made had the profit been at the rate of 1 cent a pound.

An average profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound indicates a highly competitive condition in the industry and also proves our assertion that packer profits have practically no effect on prices.

No Secret Safe From This Mind Reader

"The mind of the society girl is much like the mind of the working girl. Their thoughts are similar. If anything the repressed wishes of the former are less worthy than those of the latter."

Such was the comment of Joseph Dunninger of New York, the psychological expert whom Columbia University has asked to establish a course in mental telepathy, when asked in his room at the Hotel Touraine, what he had discovered by reading the minds of many New York society girls.

Dunninger has worked out a theory, based upon that of Dr. Sigmund Freud, but differing widely from the Freudian system in scope and plan, which he claims, enables him to read not only the conscious thoughts of others, but also what Freud terms the "unconscious."

PROMISES PROOFS.

Although, pending the publication of a book upon which he is now at work, Dunninger refuses to divulge his theory, he is willing to give proof of its results. He says he has come to Boston to pursue his investigations, but with no intent of giving any tests to prove his theory.

"However," he continued, "if the occasion should arise I am willing to submit to tests, under the supervision of a properly composed committee.

"Under proper conditions I am willing to go into any Boston bank, and give the contents of any selected vault, or to go to the Public Library and find any word in any book agreed upon by the committee.

WOULD "READ" THROUGH STEEL.

"Or, if it is preferred, I would permit the members of the committee to enclose in a wooden or steel box any articles they might individually wish, take this box to the most public place possible, and I will tell them what the box contains.

"It might be argued that such experiments savour of stage conjuring, but as a matter of fact they form the only means of proving my theory of the 'unconscious' consciousness, to the public."

GERMANY FEARS SOVIET INVASION FROM BALTIC

Paris, July 22.—Germany today formally submitted a request to the allied governments for permission to mass troops at and around the Baltic port of Memel, to resist an invasion by the Soviet forces which, it is said, is believed to be impending.

170 WORKERS AT NAVY YARD GET WAGE CUT

Approximately 170 employes, many of them veterans of the world war, hitherto rated as general helpers, at a salary of $5.68 per day, in the supply department of the Boston Navy Yard have been or are now being demoted to the status of laborers, with a cut of 12½ per cent. in wages.

The men have written to Congressmen Tague and Gallivan, through a committee, asking the two Boston representatives to seek congressional action in their behalf.

Many of the workers affected are members of local 130, A. F. L.

Seized Fowl, Worth $3,000, Beheaded

Haverhill, July 22.—Charles Clark, agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals wielded an axe in Collins' stable and chopped off the heads of twenty-nine game cocks valued at $3,000, which were seized by State police in a raid on cockfighters, in Boxford, two weeks ago.

State Officer William Murray of Lynn witnessed the executions. The dead fowl were given to firemen and policemen to take to their homes.

Keeping Healthy in Broiling Sun

When head feels heavy or stomach is acidy, get quick relief with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

IN spite of the lighter foods we eat during summer months, it is the season of greatest dyspepsia and constipation. Many find it difficult to stand the heat. They exercise little and are always tired and half-sick.

It is good policy to take plenty of ripe fruit and vegetables, lots of cool, clear water and walks when the sun has set. But with all these precautions it is often impossible to regulate the daily elimination, with the result that thousands suffer from constipation, indigestion and similar ills.

There is nothing better for clogged-up bowels, for a stomach that refuses to work, than that well-known combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known to druggists as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is America's standard relief for constipation. It has the great merit of being sure to act, yet acting mildly and without griping.

Thousands of mothers give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to infants, and it is especially popular in hot weather. Mrs. E. C. Wilson, who lives in Hugo, Okla., where the heat in summer is intense, is the mother of eight children. All of them, and including herself, maintain their health in spite of enervating heat by frequent use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See what it will do for you.

FREE Millions of people of all ages suffer from occasional or chronic constipation. Let them send name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 512 Washington Street, Monticello, Ill., for a free sample bottle of his wonderful Syrup Pepsin. 8 million bottles were bought at drug stores last year, the largest sale in the world.

W. F. FITZGERALD TAKES OUT PAPERS FOR GOVERNOR

Nomination papers for Governor have been taken out for William F. Fitzgerald of Brookline, chairman of the Property Committee of the Democratic State Committee. It is understood that friends of Colonel Guston and Mr. Fitzgerald have been in conference during the past few days with a view to supporting either one of the other and it is thought that Fitzgerald's move means that Guston will not be a candidate.

Hotel Wreckers Find Rare 'Sealed Stock'

Haverhill, July 22.—The Hotel Thorndyke, forty years old, is now being remodeled into a shoe factory. Workmen tearing down partitions found a sealed quart of G. O. Blake whiskey. It fell to the floor and was shattered. They hurriedly searched for and found two quarts. A boy found another and sold it for fifty cents. The contractors have many applications for jobs.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

It's Easy Now to Curl Hair to Stay Curled

To curl the hair to stay curled, nothing equals the simple allurette method. It is like liquid silkworm, be applied with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair, the loveliest wavy effect imaginable will be in evidence in three hours, and the curl last a long time, regardless of temperature or humidity.

This harmless method is not to be compared with curling by means of a hot iron, because, instead of injuring the hair, it is really beneficial. A few ounces of liquid allurette, which may be procured at any drug store, will last for months. The best way is to divide the hair into strands and moisten each of them from root to tip. The curls will look perfectly "natural," and the hair will be beautifully glossy, yet without the least greasiness or stickiness.—Advertisement.

An Aid to Wearing This Season's Fashions

(Helps to Beauty)

Here is a simple, unfailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs. With some powdered dolatone and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the dolatone in an original package.—Advertisement.

FIND MAIMED HERO STARVING

Veteran Who Fled "Cruelties" of Roxbury Hospital Located in Methuen Woods

Stephen V. Mahoney, World War veteran, wounded in the Argonne, and deserter from the Parker Hill Hospital because of the alleged cruel treatment received at the institution during the spring of 1919, was found with his wife and two babies living in a shack in the Methuen woods in a starving condition and suffering from the effects of his wounds.

The veteran was located by investigators from the State treasury department, who were searching for a man that cashed a State bonus check at Methuen, signing Stephen V. Mahoney's name.

When found roaming in the woods the ex-soldier told of his escape from the hospital, alleging many abuses and punishments while being treated for his wounds.

Since then he has taken refuge in the woods with his family, and recently received a check sent to Stephen V. Mahoney. Thinking the check was intended for him, he cashed it and the investigation of the State authorities unearthed the missing veteran.

He is classed as a deserter from the army, as he had not been discharged when he made his escape. Officials at the hospital today declared that the man would be well cared for and when his wounds healed would be honorably discharged.

Mahoney was drafted from Lawrence, sent to Camp Devens, then to Camp Gordon, Ga., and from there overseas with Company A, 127th Infantry, 82d Division. On October 16, 1918, he was wounded in the Argonne.

REPORTED KILLED.

He threw away all of his personal effects on the field, and when they were picked up by a field clerk he was reported as killed in action. The War Department notified his wife and memorials were sent to her by both the French and American governments.

However, he turned up alive at the Parker Hill Hospital and there deserted. Fearing he would be discovered by the army authorities, he took to the woods with his wife and baby. Since then another child, now two months old, arrived, and he has had a hard time making both ends meet.

DOESN'T KNOW WHETHER REAL WIFE IS SUING HIM

Worcester, July 22. — A martial tangle involving Reno divorce proceedings and other complications will be settled in the Central Court today when Luther Stanhope Hon, Nevada, formerly of this city, is arraigned, charged with failing to support a woman whom the defendant does not know whether or not is his legal wife.

He was divorced in Reno in December, 1912, and was later married a second time in Putnam, Ct. The day following his second marriage the Reno proceedings were revoked. Trouble over his second marriage caused his wife to leave him about seven years ago.

WAR HERO ASSISTANT RECTOR AT EMMANUEL

Rev. Harold Irvine Pair, a war hero, winner of the distinguished service cross, has been called to be assistant minister at Emmanuel Episcopal Church in this city and will begin his duties early in October. After qualifying at Plattsburg in the R. O. T. C. he was assigned to the Twenty-Sixth Division and commanded Company E, 101st Infantry. He took part in the following major operations: Marne defensive and offensive, San Mihiel drive and Meuse-Argonne offensive. He was wounded while the Yankee Division was holding the line in the Toul sector and again at Chateau-Thierry and in the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

TOOMEY DISCHARGED IN LIQUOR CASE

United States Commissioner Hayes today discharged a complaint against Daniel F. Toomey of Derry street for having two quarts of spirits in his possession at the saloon of William Monahan, Marshall street. Frederick Maher of Medford testified he was with Toomey all the time he was at the saloon and did not see him drink or expose any liquor. Commissioner Hayes continued to July 27 the case of Monahan, charged with having three gallons of whiskey in his possession.

UNITED SHOE STRIKE NEARING SETTLEMENT

Beverly, July 21—Settlement of the strike of several hundred machinists employed by the United Shoe Machinery Corporation was expected to result from a conference between officials of the company and representatives of the union, held today. Some 1,300 workers struck last May as protest against the individual contract system, but the men have been returning. A report of the union officers will be made to the men tonight.

London, July 22.—The tree of knowledge in the Garden of Eden, treasured by the Moslems of Kurnah as the original tree from which the serpent tempted Eve, is no more. Some British Tommies, on furlough from the British army in Mesopotamia, ensconced themselves in its branches to have their photos taken and the tree crashed under the weight.

The Moslems made representations to the British government and claimed compensation for the ruination of the priceless landmark at the junction of the Tigris and the old channel of the Euphrates. A court of inquiry has decided that a mosque shall be built on the spot at a cost of $1,750 and fines of several days' pay have been assessed against the erring soldiers.

BERGDOLL TRIAL TO BE SPEEDY

Youth Whose Brother Escaped Guards to Be Court-Martialed as Slacker

New York, July 22—It was announced today that Major General Robert L. Bullard, commander of the Eastern Department of the army, will at once summon a military court-martial to try Erwin Bergdoll, one of two brothers charged with evading the draft.

Accompanied by Judge Edward Ronig of Philadelphia and Charles Braun of New York, Bergdoll surrendered himself to the military authorities here yesterday and ended a search for him that has lasted more than three years.

By a queer turn of chance Bergdoll interrupted the trial of Colonel John E. Hunt on a charge of neglect of duty in the escape of Grover C. Bergdoll, brother of the missing man who has now returned.

The trial, which was being held in the house of Lieutenant-Colonel Charles C. Cresson, judge advocate, had already begun. Judge Ronig, with Bergdoll's mother, is also under indictment in Philadelphia, charged with conspiracy to aid in the escape of Grover last Spring.

The case of the two Bergdolls has attracted nation-wide attention, because of the wealth of the youths and their social prominence in Philadelphia.

Erwin Bergdoll disappeared in May, 1918, after failing to answer a call for war service. This was a year after Grover, his young brother, also a deserter from the army, fled.

The Bergdoll brother just arrested is perhaps the most noted of the four. He has been a rival of the Palms on the automobile race track, and broke the record for the 25-mile Fairmount Park race several years ago. He is thirty years old. His wife died last year, while he was a fugitive.

Find Smoking Helps in Shop Work

By Universal Service.

London, July 22.—"Smoking allowed from 9 to 11:30 in the morning and from 2 to 4:30 in the afternoon."

This printed rule has been posted in the shops of the Dick, Kerr & Co., famous throughout Europe for the excellence of their electrical engineering supplies. The company has found that smoking helps the workers to do more work.

Three months ago the men were granted permission to smoke fifteen minutes in the morning and for the same period in the afternoon. Result—more production. The company has now decided to allow ninety minutes smoking both in the morning and afternoon.

BARON CONSTANT OBJECTS TO FRANCE IN NEW WAR

By BARON D'ESTOURNELLES DE CONSTANT

(Member of the French Senate.)

Paris, July 22.—I view with horror the French government's decision, after five years of frightful hostilities, to wage a new conflict in Syria which, while not officially called "war," is certainly known as such to the parents of soldiers who are being sacrificed there.

I shall refuse to postpone any longer the formal questioning Premier Millerand in the Chamber regarding France's new imperialistic attitude, which I have already twice postponed at the request of the government, because it is afraid to answer.

Lumbermen Quit Jobs to Join Ministry

, Manchester, N. H., July 22.—Declaring that men are needed more than gold in the religious field, J. Elwin Wright of Rumney, N. H., announced today that he will sever his connection with the real estate and lumber business, in which he has been associated with his father, Joel A. Wright, since leaving school in 1906, and enter church work.

His father, who has been a clergyman for a number of years, will also retire from business to devote his time to religious work.

"I am now in a position where I can devote my time to the service of others," said Mr. Wright. The lumberman and his wife will take a year's course at the Christian Missionary Alliance Institute, Nyack, N. Y., before beginning active work in the ministry.

"TIZ" FOR SORE, TIRED FEET--AH!

"Tiz" is grand for aching, swollen, tender, calloused feet or corns.

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet, no more burning feet, no more swollen, aching, tender, sweaty feet. No more soreness in corns, callouses, bunions.

No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "Tiz." "Tiz" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. "Tiz" cures your foot trouble so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight, and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore and swollen. Think of it; no more foot misery, no more agony from corns, callouses or bunions.

Get a box at any drug store or department store and get instant relief. Wear smaller shoes. Just once try "Tiz." Get a whole year's foot comfort for the few cents. Think of it!—Advertisement.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at getting various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in a book, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asserted would grow hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and are long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly. Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

From recent photo. Taken by myself without assistance.

Photo taken bald. Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, certain drugs or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard cells so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when planted. Shampoos (which contain alkalies) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains those elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair.

MAD DOG CAUSES POKER SCANDAL

Well Known Card Players Find "Raised Pot" Missing After Animal Is Shot

Rockland, July 22.—It was a quiet little game of the great national pastime—"draw poker; jacks or better to open." Seven well known men of the town were indulging, gathered in a circle upon a shady spot on the ground back of the schoolhouse in the town centre. Twenty-five cents was the limit.

The "pot" was opened; raised three times and all seven stayed. The "person under the guns" had announced "I'll play these!" when a Boston terrier, sunning itself nearby, jumped to its feet with a yelp. The dog turned a somersault, frothed at the mouth and dove for the circle of players.

Cards, "pat hand" included, were thrown away, and the players dove over a nearby fence, some climbing trees to get out of harm's way.

Rushing into a huckleberry patch where women and children were picking berries, the terrier upset baskets and chased them in all directions. The police chief arriving on the scene killed the animal with two shots, hearing which the poker players returned to their interrupted game.

The rich pot of over $5 was missing. Each of the seven denied taking it, yet no one was seen near the spot during their forced absence. Accusations followed and the game broke up. "There's a scandal in town," but the police will not be appealed to.

REPORT DANZY BOY FOUND

White, Child's Alleged Slayer, Declares He Has Been Located at Cleveland

Hammonton, N. J., July 22.—Charles White, charged with the murder of little "Billy" Danzy, announced today that he had received a long distance telephone message from Walter Griffin of Cleveland, who said he had found the Danzy boy in that city.

According to White, Griffin went to Ohio to search for the missing lad and so certain is he that the boy he has found is the Danzy child, that he has offered to pay White's expenses up to $100 to go to Cleveland and identify him.

"Billy" Danzy was abducted from his home here on Oct. 3 and the search for him attracted nation-wide attention. On November 25 the bones of a small child were found near the spot where he was last seen and White was arrested charged with the murder of the lad.

Wilson May Pen Movie Plot on League

London, July 22—The League of Nations may become a movie hero. And the scenario may be written by President Wilson.

Announcement has been made here that a large British moving picture concern has invited the American President to state the case of the league in the form of a movie "plot."

"Europe requires," the invitation reads, "that the action of the United States Senate leaves you the lone champion of the world peace idea. Through the screen you will be able to reach an audience compared with which the resources of oratory are infinitesimal."

LIVE WIRES BURN BOY TO DEATH

Oscar Nicholson, 14, of Cambridge, Dies While Examining High Voltage Transformer

While trying to examine an electric transformer, Oscar Nicholson, aged fourteen, of No. 149 Broadway, Cambridge, was instantly killed when he slipped from the boxes on which he had climbed and fell across the high voltage feed wires leading to the transformer. The accident occurred at the corner of Portland street and Broadway.

When the boy's body struck the wires his clothing burst into flames and before aid could be summoned was burned almost beyond recognition.

A fire alarm was sent in and Chief J. J. Casey and Lieutenant B. A. McArthur, armed with rubber gloves, climbed up to the transformer and took the body off the wires.

Holyoke, July 22—Mrs. Adolph Schmidt of No. 196 Hadley street was rescued from drowning in an unused well near her home into which she accidentally fell. The rescue was effected by Alphonse Lefebvre, who descended into the well by a ladder. Mrs. Schmidt was unconscious when rescued.

FIX COST OF $50,000 TO DREDGE MERRIMAC

Lawrence, July 22—The State Waterways Commission visited Lawrence and conferred with the City Council regarding the dredging of the river. [illegible] John N. Cole of the commission stated that it might cost Lawrence $50,000. The commission was [illegible] relative to making the river navigable. Mayor White told the commissioners they would not see any plan which would entail more expenditure for Law-[illegible]

One Church Is Divided Over Baseball

Congregationalists are now divided over playing baseball on Sundays. This has been in evidence since the Rev. Edward A. Tuck, field secretary of the Lord's Day League in New Hampshire was dropped from the position, because his views on Sunday games differed from this organization in Massachusetts. Now it has developed that the New Hampshire Sabbath conference has more liberal ideas about games on Sundays than the Lord's Day League in the Bay State.

So the New Hampshire society has taken Minister Tuck under their shelter and claim his views on Sunday baseball are not so far gone from original righteousness that they can be put under the ban. All can play baseball in the Granite state without any qualms of conscience on Sunday. "The liberal Congregationalists of this state, headed by the Rev. Dr. Howard A. Bridgman, D. D., editor of the Congregationalist, claim the Lord's Day League is "making a mistake in adhering to a too strict policy."

JOHNSON'S WHITE WIFE VISITS HIM IN JAIL

Los Angeles, July 22—Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion of the world, left here today for Chicago in custody of a United States marshal. He will arrive in the Windy City shortly before noon on Sunday and will soon afterward begin serving a one-year sentence at Leavenworth for a Mann Act conviction.

The ex-champion pugilist held [illegible] jail here [illegible] and [illegible] with his [illegible] and [illegible] golden smile greeting [illegible] while wife visited him and [illegible] him a luncheon of chicken [illegible] cream.

WORCESTER TAX RATE WILL GO UP TO $26

Worcester, July 22—Worcester's 1920 tax rate will be about $26 per $1,000 and due to later figures in the hands of the assessors. This will be an increase of $7.60 over the 1919 rate.

White Made Democrat by Prof. Wilson

Washington, July 22—The new chairman of the Democratic national committee, former Congressman White from Ohio, was converted to Democracy by Woodrow Wilson, while a student at Princeton University. The story was told at the White House by Senator-elect Thomas J. Heflin, of Alabama, who said it was Wilson who, he White White's father and brothers were Republicans of the old school. When White returned from Princeton he announced that he intended to become a Democrat. "Son," the father is quoted "Under the teachings of Woodrow Wilson a man could be anything a one," was White's reply.

"It was in this way the Democratic party had available its new national chairman," Heflin declared.

N. H. Auto Dealers to Make Tax Protest

Manchester, N. H. July 22—James F. Sullivan of Boston and A. J. Stores, vice president of the Massachusetts branch of the National Automobile Dealers' Association were among the speakers at a gathering of the New Hampshire Retail Automobile Dealers at the Derryfield Club in this city.

The chief topic of discussion was the present method of auto taxation in the state, dealers claiming that it operates inequitably in a double tax in one year in many instances in that it compels an owner who pays a tax on a car early in the year and later turns it in in trade for a new machine to pay full tax on both as rebate being provided for under the law. The purchaser of the second car also has to pay a tax, the tax provided that the tax shall be paid before registration is issued. It was voted to seek a modification of the law at the next session of the Legislature.

Bernhardt Tells How to Keep Beauty

By Universal Service.

London, July 22—For women who wish to retain their beauty, Sarah Bernhardt has given the following suggestions:

1—Do what you like but only enough to sustain your strength.
2—Dress well.
3—Never wear corsets.
4—Don't worry.
5—Cultivate forgetfulness.
6—Rest from one kind of work by doing another.

These half dozen suggestions, which are receiving widespread attention in London are given by Mme. Sarah Bernhardt. Society women have formed themselves into "serious circles" to follow out the rules.

Muslin Underwear

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR has come down in price, accompanying the drop in silk underwear. It simply had to come down or it would not sell. Taking advantage of the low prices, we did not shrink from quantities, buying nightgowns, chemises, bloomers, corset covers and petticoats by the thousands. At the same time makers of fine corsets were in a quandary. With the unstable outlook in prices they did not know whether to go ahead or not. Many closed down to renovate their factories, and much stock was closed out. So we were able to secure a number of fine corsets, some of them our exclusive ideas, at low prices.

Big Crews Hold Trial Spins on Quinsigamond

Worcester, July 22—With the arrival of the Syracuse and Duluth crews, the roster for the forty-sixth national amateur rowing regatta was nearly completed, and each crew began to get down to hard work to beat their rivals. Syracuse and Duluth, to the scene of battle by more than a day and both already got in some practice over the regatta course.

The race for senior eights Saturday looms up as one of the best of the kind ever conducted by the National Rowing Association. With three crews, Annapolis, Syracuse and Duluth [illegible] Worcester, this race will decide which is to represent America at the Olympic games in Belgium.

There is hardly any choice between Duluth and Syracuse as shown by their race at Detroit last month, when "Dad" Ten Eyck's crew beat young Ten Eyck's by only a matter of feet.

Kelley Almost Certain to Go to Olympics

"Jack" Kelley and his cousin, Paul Costello, arrive here at Worcester since Tuesday. Both are to race in the singles and will pull together in the senior double event. Kelley is practically sure of being one of America's representatives at the Olympic games either in the singles or the doubles and possibly in both. He is taking no chances and twice daily can be seen taking his practice spins over the course. Kelley is also in the quarter mile but this is an Olympic tryout event.

Through a misunderstanding of the railroads the shells of the Syracuse and Duluth crews went astray at Albany. The shells were found quickly, however, and were available for practice today.

"AH! not me alone, Don Carlos," Don Julian broke in. "I am [illegible] also in honor of offering [illegible] a place in my house [illegible] and go as he chooses to be as a son—as you were [illegible] father."

Quite where is the victory; dear [illegible] thing, muttered the old man. Julian there is now no [illegible] as it is offered, so it is received.

He read [illegible] forward; a look of spiritual peace settled on his face—there was not mistaking that pallor, that [illegible] that follows the last [illegible] of [illegible].

The young man with an anguished glance at Julian who was already aware of the presence of the dead [illegible] bent and sobbed [illegible] the [illegible] of the father, while [illegible] in the way. I crossed himself and [illegible] head. Water for [illegible] of the younger to [illegible].

He resumed his seat in the carriage and went to his own palatial home, musing on the fleeting nature of all this world and the mysteries of the next.

And again at the funeral of his old friend he had occasion to reflect on the vanity of all things human. There had been a time when the aged man whose mortal [illegible] was now to be laid [illegible] would have commanded a great cortege. If he had died in the peninsula of his power and wealth he would not have asked followers. Now only Don Julian with a few other devoted men stood at the side of the coffin while the priest recited the service for the dead.

Is it the man or his possessions which command respect? When the last rites had been said he passed over to the poet and linking his arm in his drew him gently toward his carriage.

"I will drive you to your apartment, Ernesto," he said quietly. "To-night your belongings and bring them to my house."

You are sure?" the eyes of the young man sought him. "you are sure you really want me?"

"It is my hope," answered Don Julian.

Sense of Honor

"It is your high sense of honor," said Ernesto. "Be it so. I shall [illegible] [illegible] leave me free for a while, and after your marriage I will hold myself at your disposal."

Don Julian nodded and the two [illegible] together. [illegible] to the bare rooms now robbed of the old man who had been their [illegible]. CHAPTER XI.—Continued

"HELlo," he muttered under his breath, and became aware of Stephanie's white face and startled eyes.

"Nothing," he whispered; "only I can't stand this mummery! I want to get back to the library, where I can be with father. • • • He isn't in that black and silver thing over there. He isn't in any orthodox paradise. He's part of the sunlight out doors—and the Spring air. • • • He's an immortal part of everything beautiful that ever was. When these people conclude to let him alone, I'll have a chance with him. • • • You think I'm crazy, Steve?"

Her pale lips formed "No."

They remained silent after that until the end, their tense fingers interlocked. Miss Quest's head remained bowed in the folds of her crape veil.

The drive from the cemetery began through the level, rosy days of a declining sun, and ended in soft Spring darkness full of the cheery noises of populous streets.

Cleland dreaded to enter the house as they drew near to it; the prospective emptiness appalled him; but old Meacham had lighted every light all over the house; and it seemed to help, somehow.

Seemingly Hopeless

Miss Quest went with Stephanie to her room, leaving Jim in the library alone.

Strange, irrelevant thoughts came to the boy's mind to assail him, torment him with their futility; he remembered several things which he had forgotten to tell his father—matters of no consequence which now suddenly assumed agonizing importance.

There in the solitude of the library, he remembered, among other things that his father would never read his novel now. Why had he waited, wishing to have it entirely finished before his father should read this first beloved product of his eager pen?

Stephanie found him striding about the library, lips distorted, quivering with swelling grief.

"Oh, Steve," he said, seeing her in the doorway, "I am beginning to realize that I can't talk to him any more! I can't touch him—I can't talk—hear his voice—see"——

"Jim—don't"——

"The whole world is no good to me now!" cried the boy, flinging up his arms in helpless resentment toward whatever had done this thing to him.

Whatever had done it offered no excuse.

CHAPTER XII.

THE reading of John Cleland's will marked the beginning of the end of the old regime for Stephanie Quest and for James Cleland.

Two short letters accompanied the legal document. All the papers were of recent date.

The letter directed to Jim was almost blunt in its brevity.

My Dear Son:

I have had what I believe to have been two slight shocks of paralysis. If I am right, and another shock proves fatal, I wish you, after my death, to go abroad and travel and study for the next two years. At the end of that period you ought to know whether or not you really desire to make literature your profession. If you do, come back to your country and go to work. Europe is a good school, but you should practise your profession in your native land.

Keep straight, fit and clean. Keep your head in adversity and in success. Find out what business in life you are fitted for, equip yourself for it and then go into it with all your heart.

You left you some money and a good name. And my deep, abiding love. My belief is that death is merely an intermission. Be your brother and I will rejoin you when ing there in her big chair with her old chap—good luck!

FATHER.

To Stephanie he wrote:

Steve, Dear:

You have been wonderful! I'm sorry I couldn't stay to see you a little further along the path of life. I love you dearly.

Your aunt, Miss Quest, understands my wishes. During the two years that Jim is abroad, Miss Quest is to assume the necessary and natural authority over you. I have every confidence in her. Besides she is legally qualified to act.

It is her desire and mine that you finish college. But if you really find yourself unhappy there after the term is finished, then it is Miss Quest's belief and mine also that you should employ the period that otherwise you should have spent at Vassar in acquiring some regular and legitimate profession, so that if ever the need comes you shall be able to take care of yourself.

Miss Quest is inclined to think that a course in hospital training under her direct supervision might prove acceptable to you. This you could have in the institution endowed by Miss Quest at Bayport.

Perhaps such a course may appeal to you more than a college education. If so I shall not be dissatisfied.

But after that, if you still feel that your life's work lies in the direction of artistic self expression, you will be old enough to follow your own bent and entitled to employ your opportunities toward that end.

I have left you properly provided for; I leave you and Jim all the love that is in my heart.

This is not the end, Steve, dear. There is no end—just a little rest between the acts for such old actors in life's drama as your dad. Later you and Jim will join us behind the scenes—my wife and I—and we shall see what we shall see!—my little girl!—my darling!

DAD.

The boy and the girl sat up late in the library that night discussing the two letters which so profoundly concerned them.

Indeed, the old order of things was about to pass away before their dismayed and saddened eyes—eyes not yet accustomed to the burning grief which dimmed them—hearts not yet strengthened for the first heavy responsibilities which they had ever borne.

"I can't bear to leave you, Steve," said the boy, striving to steady his voice. "What are you going to do about college?"

"Well—I—I'll go back to college and finish the term. Dad wanted it."

Neither dreamed of disobeying the desires expressed in the two letters.

"Will you finish college?" he asked.

"I don't know. I want to do what Dad wished me to do. I wonder what a course in hospital training is like?"

"Down there at Bayport?"

"Yes. After all, that is accomplishing something. And I like children, Jim."

"They're defective children down there."

They Realize Their Loss

"Poor little lambs! I—I believe I could do some good—accomplish something. But do you know, Jim, it almost frightens me when I remember that you will be away two years"—— She began to weep, lying hetre in her big chair with her black-edged handkerchief pressed against her face.

"I wish I could take you to Europe, Steve," he said huskily.

She dried her eyes leisurely.

"Couldn't you? No, you couldn't, of course. Dad would have said so if it was what he wanted. Well—then I'll finish the term at Vassar. You won't go before Easter?"

"No, I'll be here, Steve. We'll see each other then, anyway. Do you think you'll get along with your aunt?"

"I don't know," said the girl. "She means to be kind, I suppose. But dad spoiled me. Oh, Jim! I'm—I'm too happy to endure what becomes of me now. I'll finish the term and then I'll go and learn how to nurse sick, little defective children while you're away"—— her voice broke again.

"I wish you wouldn't cry," said the boy. "I'm—I can't stand it"——

"Oh, forgive me!" She sprang up and flung herself on the rug beside his chair.

"I'm sorry! I'm selfish. I'll do everything dad wished, cheerfully. You'll go abroad and educate yourself by travel, and I'll learn a profession. And some day I'll find out what I am really fitted to do, and then I'll go abroad and study, too."

"You'll be twenty, then, Steve—just the age to know what you really want to do."

She nodded listlessly, kneeling there beside his chair, her cheek resting on her clasped hands, her gray eyes fixed on the dying coals.

After a long silence she said:

Stephanie Explains

"Jim, I really don't know what I want to do in life. I am not certain that I want to do anything."

"What? Not the stage?"

"No—I'm not honestly sure. Everything interests me. I have a craving to see everything and learn about everything in the world. I want to know all there is to know; I'm feverishly curious. I want to see everything, experience everything, attempt everything! It's silly—it's crazy, of course. But there's a restless desire for the edge of experience in my heart that I can't explain. I love everything—not one particular thing above another—but everything. To be great in any one thing would not satisfy me—it's a terrible thing to say, isn't it, Jim?—but if I were a great actress I should try to become a great singer, too; and then a great painter and sculptor and architect——"

"For Heaven's sake, Steve!"

"I tell you I want to know it all, be it all—see, do, live everything that is to be seen, done and lived in the world——"

She lifted her head and straightened her shoulders, sweeping the tumbled hair from her brow impatiently; and her brilliant gray eyes met his unsmiling.

"Of course," she said, "this is rot I'm talking. But every hour of my life I'm going to try to learn something new about the wonderful world I live in—try something new and wonderful—live every minute in the full—experience everything • • • Do you think I'm a fool, Jim?"

He smiled.

"No, but you make me feel rather unambitious and commonplace, Steve. After all, I merely wish to write a few good novels. That would content me."

Oh, Jim," she said, "you'll do it, and I'll probably amount to nothing. I'll be just a crazy creature flying about and poking my nose into everything, and stirring it up a little and then fluttering on to the next think. Like the Mandarlog—that's what I am—just a monkey, enchanted and excited by everything inside my cage and determined to find out what is hidden under every straw."

"Yours is a good mind, Steve," he said, still smiling.

STRONG START FOR BOSTON

But Prices Reacted Soon and List Became Irregular; Curb Is Heavy

For the first time this week or so the Boston market could be described as starting strong, but this condition did not prevail throughout the first hour and before the end of that period the list was irregular in price changes. Before noon the majority of active issues showed a fractional loss. Cassin Hill came nearer being a feature than any other issue. It advanced nearly a point and was quite active. American Woolen preferred was up a point at its highest but lost part of the advance. Other gains were fractional.

Among issues to make small gains were Boston & Maine, New Haven, Copper Range, United Shoe, Swift & Co. and Wolverine. Copper showed a little more strong strength.

United Fruit and Pacific Mills reached new highs while smaller issues were sustained by Eastern Steamship, American Telephone, Venture, National Leather, Greenfield Tap, North Butte, International Products, United Drug, Hood common and Libby.

HEAVY TONE TO CURB.

Little trading was done on the Curb during the morning, and after starting out quietly it remained dull. While the list was irregular, as usual, the tone was heavy. The most active issues centered around the opening were Bagdad, Mutual and Pilgrim. Weak ones included Arizona Tip Top, Boston & Montana, Daddy and Jerome Verde. Early strength was displayed by United Verde Extension, Pilgrim, Porcupine Premier, Bagdad and Bay State Gas.

At the end of an hour Mutual was up 2 cents at 18 cents and losses included Bagdad 3 cents at 26 cents and Madonna ¼ at 2¾. Boston & Montana had recovered its loss and Pilgrim and Porcupine Premier had fair gains.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

New Cornelia's copper output for June was 8,664,000 pounds against $,720,000 for May this year and 8,440,000 for June last year.

Charles E. Winter has retired from the firm of Hallgarten & Co., which he was a shareholder.

There is talk to the effect that Granby Consolidated may expend $1,000,000 in the construction of a concentrator.

There has been added to the Boston Stock Exchange list $1,000,000 additional 20-year 7 per cent. debenture bonds of the General Electric Co., making $11,000,000 of such bonds authorized.

Purchasing of electric woolen mills in Eastern Connecticut has thrown 4,000 hands out of work.

A Northwestern Miami well on an oil lease in Young County, Texas, is now down 2,450 feet but will be deepened to 2,650 to strike the sand from which the Ranger-Burkburnett Oil Co.'s McClusky well is flowing at the rate of 400 barrels a day.

The build of the United Fruit Co.'s investment of $6,500,000 in the Cuyamel Fruit Co. is explained in local financial publication says that the Cuyamel and Pacific at Nueva Reading will be taken over by the American Steamship Co., controlled under the laws of Massachusetts, and converted into a fish plier.

SUGARS LOWER; RAILS STEADY

Rally in the Second Hour Led by Oils; Steels Mixed and Quiet

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, but were above the lowest level of the morning. There was rally in the second hour in which Mexican Petroleum and Pan American figured. Sugars remained weak and rails were steady.

The market was narrow and trading was quiet. First hour transactions totalled less than a hundred thousand shares. Call loans were renewed at 8 per cent. Sterling exchange was weak, the opening quotation for demand

SMALL GAINS AT OPENING.

Gains were the rule at the opening, but there was little activity, advancing from fractions to about a point. Sugars were an exception. Punta Alegre and Manati being the weakest in this department. The first named soon recovered most of its loss, while smaller issues were sustained by Eastern Steamship, American Telephone, Ventura, National Leather, Greenfield Tap, North Butte, International Products, United Drug, Hood common and Libby.

HEAVY TONE TO CURB.

Little trading was done on the Curb during the morning, and after starting out quietly it remained dull. While the list was irregular, as usual, the tone was heavy. The most active issues centered around the opening were Bagdad, Mutual and Pilgrim. Weak ones included Arizona Tip Top, Boston & Montana, Daddy and Jerome Verde. Early strength was displayed by United Verde Extension, Pilgrim, Porcupine Premier, Bagdad and Bay State Gas.

At the end of an hour Mutual was up 2 cents at 18 cents and losses included Bagdad 3 cents at 26 cents and Madonna ¼ at 2¾. Boston & Montana had recovered its loss and Pilgrim and Porcupine Premier had fair gains.

SUGAR SALE REPORT.

According to a local financial publication, the report that the Punta Alegre Sugar Company has sold its Trinidad mill is premature, it being stated:

"We understand officially that the sale has not been consummated, although Punta Alegre directors have the matter under consideration. However, there is a strong likelihood of the sale being effected, inasmuch as the negotiations embody an attractive price, namely Trinidad, being a small and relatively high cost producer, does not fit well into the Punta Alegre organization."

The weakness of the shares of sugar companies on the stock exchange was attributed to the decline in the price of raw sugar, which broke from 60 to 56 points at the opening yesterday.

WOMAN SUES TO GET BACK OLD HEIRLOOMS

Henry C. Miller and Mary H. Miller, both of Winchester, have been made the defendants in a bill of equity filed in the Suffolk Superior Court by Ida Bell Wise, who seeks by her suit to have the court restore to her, two heirlooms or $630 which she alleges the defendants obtained in this or a loan which they had granted on the jewelry.

The complainant alleges that the Millers redeemed the jewels from pawn for $630 and that the latter alleges that she attempted to give them that sum as had been previously agreed and that Miller refused to accept it or to turn over the jewels.

HOLD FLEISHER AS HEAD OF "RUM GANG"

New London, Ct., July 22.—Federal prohibition agents making this city their headquarters for eastern Connecticut are confident that they have arrested the head of the gang of rum runners that have been flooding the State with liquor in the person of Joseph Fleisher, who has been taken into custody by the Norwich authorities as proprietor of $25,000 worth of 700 whiskey and wine and automobile truck in that city several days ago. Louis H. Sorrell of Bridgeport, Silvii Michini of Naugatuck, Antonio Lagrutta, both of New York, were arrested and held for United States Court ah drivers of the truck.

Plan Legion Field Day

All-Dorchester Post of the American Legion will hold its first annual field day and carnival at Combination Park, Dorchester, Saturday.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, July 22.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 2 points to an advance of 4 points. Most of the demand appeared to be based on unfavorable weather reports. Liverpool were poor, foreign exchange was weak and the South a seller. Opening prices included: July, 32.00; October, 27.90; December, 29.40; January, 29.18; March, 31.00; May, 30.25.

LESS FEAR OF STRIKE, RAILS ARE FAVORED

By BROADAN WALL.

New York, July 22.—Best opinion in Wall Street yesterday was there would be no railroad strike and that the unions would accept the award after a little more grumbling. But traders were much at sea during most of the day and business was on a light scale. The market therefore did not acquire any headway in either direction. If the identity of purchasers counts for anything then the market is going to advance, for the buying was of the best sort.

Railroad stocks were favorites as were the oils and railroad equipment shares. Sugar stocks were weak following a break of sugar options. Corn products and U. S. food products, which make substitutes for sugar, were strong.

July option sold at the record price of 43 cents a pound, thereby enabling traders to go short of cotton options. Money did not go above 8 per cent., at which level it ruled all day.

For the break in sugar stocks there seems no explanation other than the belief that those shares have not been liquidated sufficiently.

So many oil wells are just on the verge of coming in that the oil stocks can hardly be restrained even with the high money rates that prevail. In Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma there are important wells that show signs of being big gushers.

The advance in Haskell-Barker was due to a rumor that the dividend would be increased. It also will share, of course, in the car building boom that must come if the country is to be saved from another serious freight congestion.

The fact that no grain is being used this year for intoxicating liquor or beer is expected to make a material difference in the supply available for food. According to crop reports the stocks of grain this Fall will be more than normal.

MARLBORO CAN'T HAVE BATHHOUSE THIS YEAR

Marlboro, July 22.—Once more the Committee on Public Health by law has an adverse action on a recommendation to build a bathhouse at Fort Meadow. The committee has voted to report to the City Council next Monday that it would be inadvisable to build so late in the season, as the water would be ice before the bathhouse could be built, and furthermore, no money has been appropriated for the project. The committee will recommend that a bathhouse is to be built, steps be taken before March.

LARKIN DEMONSTRATION BEFORE U. S. CONSULATE

Dublin, July 22.—Three hundred sympathizers with "Jim" Larkin, the Irish agitator, recently sentenced in the United States to a prison term, held a demonstration in front of the American consulate here, wildly cheering speakers eulogising Larkin.

Sinn Fein pickets, chosen to enforce the strike against the handling of British arms and ammunition, cleared a few factories at revolver points and closed up some. Hundreds of factory girls defied the pickets and stuck to their jobs.

BODIES OF 815 U. S. SOLDIERS COME HOME

Hoboken, N. J., July 22.—The bodies of 815 American soldiers reached American soil aboard the army transport Princess Matoika from Brest. The vessel also brought back 2,600 Polish troops, who were sent immediately to Camp Dix for discharge. And 240 American soldiers, most of them on furlough from the army of occupation.

ELWELL'S EX-SECRETARY FINED UNDER DRY LAW

New York, July 22.—William E. Barnes, former secretary of Joseph Brooks Elwell, the murdered sportsman and gambler, was fined $200 here arraigned in the Federal Court charged with violating the Volstead act. He pleaded guilty to negotiating the purchase of two cases of whiskey for H. Hobart Porter, president of the American Water Works and Electrical Company.

LARGE PROFITS IN GERMAN MARKS

German money is selling at about one-tenth of its normal value. Large profits with small risks are now possible through the purchase of six-month options. Financial experts are predicting a sharp advance shortly.

$40 CONTROLS 10,000 MARKS
$350 CONTROLS 100,000 MARKS

THE PURCHASE OF OPTIONS LIMITS ALL RISK, as the cost of option plus possible brokerage and expenses only one-sixth as much capital to other forms of speculation. Let us explain how it does as much Marks with same investment.

HOLDER MAKES ADVANCE TO ONE-HALF THEIR NORMAL PRICE, AND IS PROTECTED IN CASE OF LOSS. NOW WILL MAKE NET PROFITS OF 50,000.

Forward remittance of $40 for six-month option on 10,000 Marks, or $350 for six-month option on 100,000 Marks.

HELEN KELLER'S LIFE IN FILM

"Deliverance" Shows How Blind Girl Overcame Her Afflictions

When a person is deprived of one of the five great faculties, the others are usually sharpened and much keener than those of the ordinary man or woman. What of a person who has lost two?

Sight and hearing are denied Helen Keller; touch, smell and taste have had to supply for her the powers enjoyed by those who can see and hear. So only have they been trained to do so, but her mind, an uncommonly alert and intelligent mind, has been developed beyond that of the average person.

STORY OF HER LIFE.

How it was done, with what companions, playmates and teachers, is shown in the remarkable film play now at Tremont Temple, called "Deliverance." It is the story of Helen Keller's life, in pictorial terms. Rich in incident as this picture is, it represents only a part of the extraordinary circumstances of the life of this girl, who has been called "The eighth wonder of the world."

"Not by clinging to old walls," she answered without hesitation. "I think I should know I was in Boston if I were transplanted to it in my sleep."

BLIND SINCE A CHILD.

Hardly less remarkable a person than her pupil is Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy, the teacher to whom Helen owes her education and practically the power of speech. Mrs. Macy is an important part of the picture "Deliverance."

It is a popular belief that Helen has been deaf and blind from birth. This is not the case. An attack of scarlet fever at the age of nineteen months left her both blind, so that she has no recollection of ever having seen. It was the problem of training a mind so enclosed in walls of isolation as hardly to appreciated until one has seen the picture of how it was done. The better to impress the difficulties for the uninformed, the pupil's early ignorance are pictured as allegorical figures struggling for the possession of the girl's mind. The awakening of Ignorance is gradually achieved. The picture is far more than merely an education film. It is a very human story, of engrossing interest and remarkably well told.

HOTEL MEN FINED $1,000 FOR DRY LAW VIOLATION

New York, July 22—Owners of Makin's, a popular hotel and restaurant, were fined $1,000 when charges of violating the wartime prohibition act, placed against the hostelry, were heard in the federal court. Julius Keller, president and treasurer, was sentenced to thirty days in the Essex county jail. Three of the employes, a bartender and two waiters, received sentences of thirty to sixty days on the same charges. They were granted one week in which to appeal.

PRESIDENT'S PEACE SHIP NOW AT SOUTH BOSTON

The United States transport George Washington, formerly the German liner of the same name, and used by President Wilson on his trip to Europe, was successfully shifted from the Navy Yard in Charlestown across the bay on a docking plaque, alongside the new Commonwealth drydock in South Boston, Seven of the Boston Trowboat Company's tugs accomplished the task of moving the big ship. It was the biggest "shift" of the kind ever attempted here.

The George Washington will be drydocked at South Boston and made ready for commission. She has been assigned to a New York company by the Government and will return to the transatlantic trade under the American flag.

HORSE BREAKS INTO OLD LEXINGTON WELL

An old well, in excellent condition, was unearthed by accident at the residence of Anthony Ross, at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Cedar street, in Lexington, and was discovered after the hind leg of a horse had broken through the planking that covered the well to the fifty-foot deep. The horse was rescued without injury. The well, which is now dry, is stoned up in the best of fashion.

PLAN TO IDENTIFY BAY STATE DEAD

Commission Asks Help of Legion Posts, Army Chaplains and Others

Chairman Walter A. Robinson, Colonel Edward L. Logan and Lieutenant Axel E. Zeiterman, constituting the memorial commission for Massachusetts dead of the world war in foreign countries, have sent out from headquarters in the State House a letter explaining that it is their immediate purpose to:

"Photograph the cemeteries in which are dead lie, and also the cross or star that marks the individual grave and definitely to locate and describe the vicinity of the cemetery.

"Establish the identity of Massachusetts dead now among the 'unidentified.'

"Photograph and describe as accurately as possible the dug-out, trench and battlefield connected with the last few days of the activities and the death of each individual.

"The commissioners ask for the cooperation of the close companions of the dead, the American Legion (in particular the chaplains), local and city clerks, all-estate and fraternal organizations and workers connected with the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus, the Salvation Army and the hospital service.

"The commission has evidence, the letter says, 'that about 3,000 of these bodies (Massachusetts men) lie in foreign soil.'"

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTESS AND ALARM US TODAY

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointents made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, includinthe Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Refendum and the Recall to national matters.

Purpose of Governor Cox's Visit to the White House

Governor Cox's meeting with President Wilson at the White House on Sunday was entirely harmonious—an occasion for mutual compliments—as everybody knew it would be.

President Wilson's only idea of an agreeable man is a man who agrees with him. Governor Cox is too astute a politician not to agree with President Wilson at this stage of the campaign. In saying this we do not impute insincerity or lack of independence to the Democratic candidate for President.

Governor Cox has before him the difficult feat of walking a tightrope over a great gulf. The rope is held at one end by President Wilson. The other end is held by the mass of Democrats who do not agree with President Wilson, and by many progressives and independents whose votes Governor Cox must get if he is to be elected President.

If either end of the rope on which Governor Cox is walking should be dropped at this stage of the campaign his candidacy would become hopeless.

But to win he must walk AWAY from President Wilson toward the group on the other side. It is obvious that at the start he must make sure that President Wilson is BACK of him and is holding up his end of the rope, because if the word should go out from the White House to the great army of Administration officeholders that the President was not interested in Governor Cox's campaign and expected to see him defeated, the whole political machine would be crippled at the start.

It is significant that after talking with the President for exactly an hour, Governor Cox withdrew to the private office of the President's secretary and there spent one hour and a half in preparing a statement of 146 words, which any good newspaper man like Governor Cox could write in five minutes.

It may have been, and probably was, submitted to the President, perhaps several times, before it was completed.

In his talk with fifty newspaper men, held later, Governor Cox made one statement that is of more significance than his formal written declaration handed out with President Wilson's approval of him. Asked by the reporters whether he would care to state any details of his conference with the President on the League of Nations covenant, he answered promptly:

We discussed the subject only in a general way. The President had known my views from statements already made, which covered MY TWO RESERVATIONS and which showed what MY POSITION was, and you have his response.

That was all that Governor Cox needed to say—and it was the most a clever Democratic aspirant for the Presidency could be expected to say in the circumstances—to show that he was not simply the Administration candidate.

For one of the two reservations which Governor Cox declared to be necessary, in his judgment, before the League covenant should be ratified was a clear "reservation" as follows:

That without any suggestion that the United States sought to shirk its obligations, the League participants should clearly understand that the war-making power is vested in Congress and that the United States COULD NOT ACT except in harmony with the Constitution in complying with ANY League decision.

This strikes at Article Ten of the Covenant, which provides that

The members of the League undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the League. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression THE COUNCIL SHALL ADVISE UPON THE MEANS BY WHICH THE OBLIGATION SHALL BE FULFILLED.

This article—the only one in the Treaty written by President Wilson's own hand—has been described by him as "the heart of the Treaty." He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that it imposed a moral obligation upon the United States.

Mr. Wilson's own interpretation of this clause has changed the doubts and misgivings of thousands of earnest supporters of the League of Nations in the country into open hostility to the covenant. It turned twenty-one DEMOCRATIC SENATORS against it in the Senate.

Further discussion by Mr. Wilson on the stump alienated from him the support of the two stoutest champions of the League of Nations, ex-President Taft and President Lowell of Harvard University, president of the League to Enforce Peace. Both threw over Mr. Wilson's league covenant as written. They demanded the strong reservation for which TWENTY-THREE Democratic Senators out of forty-seven ultimately voted.

Governor Cox showed where he stood when, in advance of his highly important conference with the President, he gave out publicly the statement that he thought the League covenant should NOT be adopted without reservations.

No one could expect him to go further than this at present. Circumstances have made him NOT an Administration candidate. His nomination was vigorously opposed in the convention by seven members of President Wilson's Cabinet past and present. Not one strong Wilson man supported Governor Cox.

He can count with confidence upon the support of every anti-Wilson Democrat. His trip to Washington was to smoke the pipe of peace with President Wilson in the White House wigwam. They had a fine smoke!

In his letter of acceptance Governor Cox will undoubtedly try, and perhaps with equal success, to sail between the Scylla of opposing Mr. Wilson's personal policies and the Charybdis of flatly endorsing his League of Nations covenant.

How One State Is Guarding the Health of Vacationists

Michigan is one of the world's Summer playgrounds. The Michigan Health Department is determined to make its vacation resorts safe.

It has equipped a "laboratory on wheels," in charge of an engineer, a bacteriologist and an expert on garbage disposal. They will tour the resorts, inspect the water and milk supply, point out improvements in disposing of waste and set up local agencies to carry on the good work.

In seven years deaths from "vacation typhoid" in Michigan have been cut in half. The aim now is to do away with them altogether.

Michigan's example is worthy of general adoption.

More Truth Than Poetry

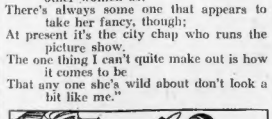
Hank Can't Understand It

By S. E. KISER

HANK SIMMONS said the other day: "Most women's mighty queer—
My wife, for instance, though I'll say she's awful sweet and dear.
At first she praised the doctor and had many aches and ills;
I don't feel jealous, understand—I settled all his bills.
And then she took the preacher up, but durned if I could see
That either of the two appeared to be a bit like me.

"THE next man that she seemed to like to feed and pet was Brown,
The knock-kneed music teacher, who upset things in this town.
Of course, I know the talk that went from mouth to mouth was rot;
I knew durned well she never meant no harm in act or thought;
The thing I can't see through is why she liked the skulkin' dog—
He didn't look no more like me than I look like a frog.

"I'M fifty-three, she's thirty-four, and durned good-looking, too;
I guess she don't sail high no more than other women do.
There's always some one that appears to take her fancy, though;
At present it's the city chap who runs the picture show.
The one thing I can't quite make out is how it comes to be
That any one she's wild about don't look a bit like me."



Dares Death to Please Bride

PIERRE TARTOU, today one of the foremost of society's portrait painters, will brave death at the hands of South American headhunters just to obtain for his young bride a rare bird which is to be found only in the wilds of Colombia. How many husbands would contemplate a journey of 6,000 miles, hardship and the possibility of a terrible death simply because their wife had shed tears over the loss of a pet songster?

Tartou is doing this, and matrons and maids the country over are singing his praises as the ideal lover. The story appears in full in Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser—the Magazine Section.

The mystery of the Gila Monster's poison is rapidly being cleared up. Exhaustive scientific research shows that this venom, long a subject of controversy, is deadly to small animals, makes cats voiceless, dogs weep and mice bleed at the eyes, but cannot kill a man. A full page article on this decision of the American desert in the Magazine Section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" is up against it. Wallace Eddinger, who played the part of the little lord many years ago, when he was still a youngster with long curls, is [illegible] to convince his wife—who is [illegible] being embraces and love-making mean [illegible] sue for divorce. The story, as it appears in Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser, is most interesting.

The fourth instalment of the Hope Diamond Mystery, appearing in the Boston Sunday Advertiser, goes back to the time of Louis XIV. and his court. The great jewel, which seems to have brought misfortune and death to all its wearers, was active then. It caused untold trouble and suffering among the gay ladies and lords of the royal palace. The story is written by Lady Francis Hope (May Yohe) herself, one of the latest victims of this malevolent gem.

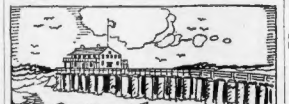
Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

Wellfleet, Cape Cod, Sometime in July.

LAST WEEK,
I WROTE.
I WAS going away.
TO FIND an inn.
IN A little town.
WITH A street veranda.
AND A balcony.
AND PAINTED white.
AND I didn't find it.
BUT FOUND instead.
CHEQUESSET INN.
AT THE end of a road.
THAT WANDERS down.
TO CAPE Cod Bay.
AND THEN runs out.
TO THE end of a pier.
AND ON the pier.
THE INN is built.
AND HAS been there.
FOR YEARS and years.
AND I'M there now.
AND AS I write.
THE WIND blows high.
ACROSS THE bay.
AND WAVES come in.
AND GO tumbling past.
TO THE long sand beach.
AND UNDERNEATH.
WHERE THE inn is built.
THEY CROWD their way.
THROUGH THE upright piles.
AND I hear them go.
WHILE THEY sing their songs.
IN A deep bass voice.
AND THE whistling winds.
ACCOMPANY THEM.
AND IT'S all so different.
FROM THE little white Inn.
I HAD hoped to find.
WHERE THERE was peace.
AND QUIETUDE.
BUT SOMEHOW or other.
IT SEEMS to me.
I MAY rest out here.
WHERE THE storm winds blow.
AS I might rest.
IN THE rocking chair.
THAT I might have found.
ON THE street veranda.
OF THE small town Inn.
AND, ANYWAY.
SINCE I was a boy.
I'VE HAD a desire.
TO LIVE in a house.
THAT STOOD on a wharf.



I THANK you.

LESSON FOR RESTLESS TIMES WE LIVE IN

By Beatrice Fairfax

"I SEE all sorts of useless grumblers around me; they say I have picked out a queer time to shout in, that we are in a sad state now. But no state is sad. There are only dreary people, and I am not one of them, the Lord be praised! The future is yours, my sons—but I like it better where I am. It is safer where I am, and how can I be sure that wine will be as good in four centuries from now? "Blessed be the day when I saw the light! How many glorious things there are on this round ball, things which smile at you and taste sweet! Life is good. I always hunger for more, no matter how much I stuff myself. I give you my word my mouth fairly waters before the feast spread for me by the earth and the sun."

Fine Doctrine

I'm quoting this as a fine doctrine to spread before our eyes in the hideously sensational time we live in. There's a publicity and a content and a sanity in the words of our friendly philosopher which carry the healing of the sun itself. We require the healing of sunshine and fresh air today.

We ought to get out of cities and into places of murmuring grasses and swaying leaves and babbling brooks. Country sights and sounds, country simplicity are things we all need to get into our blood and sinew and bone and fibre this Summer as it seems we never needed them before.

For over our world of cities a hysteria and an unrest are sweeping. And when we aren't living hysterically, we are reading of hysterical things.

Doubt Decency

In doubting the inherent decency and soundness of our own time we come to think that nothing fine would be respected by such degenerate days. And so we excuse our own peccadilloes and philanderings and pursuits of the unworthy. We conclude that there's nothing to be gained by being any better than our surroundings. Instead, then, of leavening the mass up a bit we help to leaven it down.

We have to believe in the present in order to try to be worthy of the best in that present and to help conquer the worst in it.

We have to believe in today in order to believe in ourselves—who are part of today.

WHEN YOUR FRIENDS LOSE AT CARDS

You are a friendly little crowd of poker players, but one of your crowd is invariably loser, or, rather, some one of you loses every time.

And he cannot afford to lose the money which you or another of his friends win from him at each sitting.

Perhaps you belong to a club and the wives take part and one couple most often comes out the loser.

Are you a real friend to take this money, even if you did win in the spirit of a friendly game?

They are good sports, the losers, but can they afford it?

"That is their lookout," you say, and not yours; "they do not have to join in the game; they like it as well as you do."

Of course they are their own bosses, but if you are a loyal friend to anyone you won't see the one you care about getting poorer every game just because they cannot let the game alone.

Be big enough to plan some other amusement and then make it interesting rather than let your friends go to the dogs in your company.

How many times in your life did you ever save a man from himself when it was to your advantage to let him go on?

Stars and Stripes

There may be a difference in some of the mixtures, but the "per cent." of wood alcohol always seems to be sufficient to knock 'em out.

PICK WORDS WHEN YOU WRITE ON SCIENCE

By Garrett P. Serviss

A LITTLE more care in the accurate use of words would add greatly to the power of language. Synonyms are excellent for giving variety, but they are sad promoters of obscurity and verbosity.

A single word accurately used is worth far more than a dozen piled one upon another, none of which just hits the meaning. But behind the damaging effect of the inaccurate use of words upon the style of a writer or speaker lurks the injury which the words themselves suffer, and through them in general the language of which they form a part.

The universally recognized superiority of French as a medium of clear expression is probably mainly due to the great care which the French people take to observe the distinctions between the words of their language and always to employ them in their proper senses.

The growth and spread of scientific methods of thinking and working make the discriminative use of words increasingly important to everybody. Professor Richard M. Field of Brown University calls attention to the loose use of the word "fossil," even by geologists.

Misuse of Word "Fossil"

Thus one reads of "fossil volcanoes" and "fossil river channels." And there are writers whom Professor Field calls "literary persons," who employ such expressions as "fossil poetry" and "fossil statesman." In these cases the writer's meaning is perfectly evident; he is using the noun "fossil" as an adjective, and in a symbolical sense, but writers on science should not employ scientific words in that way.

It would become impossible to convey sound scientific knowledge from mind to mind if the terms selected to describe and fix its facts and principles were generally diluted or turned aside from their strict meaning and application, or used with strict accuracy by some writers and speakers and loosely by others. Half the fogs that trouble the ordinary reader when he undertakes to traverse the fields of science are due to the capricious use of words which ought to have an invariable signification.

The meaning of the word "fossil," as used by paleontologists, who alone, as Professor Field reminds us, have defined what fossils are, is "the remains of a plant or animal, or the record of its presence, preserved in the rocks of the earth." Professor Field thinks that this would be improved by putting it as follows: "A fossil is an object which indicates former existence of an organism which has been buried and preserved by geological causes previous to historic time."

Politicians and poets may legitimately employ the idea underlying this definition in a broad way, to stimulate the imagination, or point a sarcasm, but scentific writers surely ought not to take liberties with it.

When "Rotate" Is Correct

A long list could be made of words to which science has attached fixed meanings, but which are often used inaccurately at the cost of confusion of thought. One of these which I find turning up continually in letters of inquiry is "revolution" used in the sense of "rotation."

People speak of the earth "revolving on its axis," or a wheel "revolving." Proper usage confines the word "revolution" to the motion of a body in an orbit around a centre of force which is situated in another entirely separate body. Thus the earth "revolves" around the sun, but it "rotates" around its own axis. So, a wheel "rotates" (not "revolves") on its axle.

I have not space left to mention many other often misused words, such as "planet" for "star" or vice versa; "meteor" for "meteorite," "cyclone" for "tornado," and so on. None of us is as exact in the use of words as all of us should be.
